

Daladier Acts To End Spanish Air Raids Upon French Regions

Makes Personal Investigation in District
Along Border

STERN ACTION SEEN

Foreign Minister Confers With Envoys to London, Berlin

Paris—(AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier today left by plane for the French-Spanish frontier, accompanied by General Jules Decamp, chief of his military staff, immediately after he received word warplanes from Spain had crossed the frontier for the second successive day. His aides said he would make a personal investigation at the scene of yesterday's flight.

Daladier planned to discuss with commanders of anti-aircraft, aviation and army units in the Toulouse border region all means of protecting the district against further bombardments.

"The next bombing error Spanish planes make over French territory will bring them an unpleasant surprise," one French official commented.

Today's air raiders from Spain, like those of yesterday, were nine unmarked planes flying in three V formations. They dropped no bombs and turned back after a 10-minute flight over French territory. They were greeted by warning shots from at least two French anti-aircraft batteries.

Confers With Envoys
While Daladier flew south, Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet cancelled vacation plans and conferred at the foreign office with the French ambassadors to London and Berlin, chiefly on the collapse of recent Franco-Italian negotiations over the Spanish question.

The French embassy in Rome sent summaries of Italian press comment accusing France of trying to smash the German-Italian entente. One of the main complaints of the Italian press was that supplies still being sent from France to the Spanish government by the route which planes of "unknown nationality" bombed yesterday and over which they flew again today.

Officials here indicated that Earl of Perth, Britain's ambassador to Rome, recently warned Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italy's foreign minister, that the Anglo-Italian agreement of April 16 would lose much of its value if the Franco-Italian talks broke down over Rome's attitude toward Spain.

Planes Patrol Border
Squadrons of French warplanes patrolled near the Spanish frontier today under orders to shoot down any air raiders attempting such an attack on French soil as that made yesterday by "unknown nationality" bombers.

The planes roared over the Pyrenees from the direction of Spain and dropped bombs 15 miles inside the French border.

Witnesses told government investigators the planes flew for two hours along the main Trans-Pyrenean railroad from Toulouse to Barcelona and penetrated 50 miles into France before retracing their course and bombing in the vicinity of Orli.

One powerful bomb wrecked electric power lines from the plant at Orli and another struck near the railroad. Most of the explosives, however, fell in open fields and no casualties were reported.

An official investigation of the bombing was ordered. A foreign office spokesman declared an energetic protest would be made as soon as it was determined from which side of the Spanish civil war the raiders came.

Witnesses said they were painted grey and bore no identification marks. French newspapers, however, expressed belief they probably were insurgent planes because supplies for government Spain have been moving along the railroad.

A light fog overhung the region of the flight at the time of the bombing.

Tiresome Old Argument

Women still feel so inferior that they generally adopt the opinions of their male relatives, according to a survey by Dr. Philip M. Klay of Columbia University. The learned doctor may be a fine surgeon, but in our experience the inferiority complex is shared 50-50. In most households the men lead with the chin and the women lead in chinling. Frequently, to mutual advantage, they compromise on running a classified want-ad in The Post-Crescent. This one, though it had no such history, was very successful:

NEWARK RAINS EGGS ON THOMAS

A typical Jersey greeting was given Norman Thomas, one-time Socialist candidate for president, when he attempted to address a crowd of 500 in Newark's Military park. Thomas, recently "deported" from Jersey City when he attempted to speak there, was met in Newark by a veritable rain of rotten eggs thrown with unerring aim by a band of 100 men wearing overseas caps. This remarkable photograph shows the eggs bouncing off the speaker's head. (Copyright by Ralph Morgan from the Associated Press)

Father and Son Are Liberated in Kidnaping Probe

Freed After Wives Appeal
To Federal Bureau
Of Investigation

Princeton, N.J.—(AP)—M. F. Braxton and his son, James, held by federal agents since last Wednesday in connection with the kidnaping of James Bailey Cash, Jr., were released today after their wives called at the federal bureau of investigation to plead for their freedom.

The women, almost hysterical, emerged from the F. B. I. office reporting the agents refused to let them see their husbands or give them any word, but the unemployed carpenter and his fisherman son turned up here a short time later.

Both declined to make any statements about the case. As far as was known, no witnesses or suspects were held at the Miami headquarters after their release.

Meanwhile Cash reopened his filling station and luncheon for the first time since May 28, when his 5-year-old son was abducted for $10,000 ransom. He said he had heard nothing new.

A small yellow biplane swept low over the F. B. I. field office this morning and dropped a note which agents picked up and took into headquarters. It came from the direction of the islands to the south and presumably brought a message from a handful of men exploring there.

Twelve men only of a force of 2,000 volunteers cruised along the small islands off Cape Sable and near the Florida keys in the final effort of the vast manhunt.

They were sent to the Cape region on receipt of an unconfirmed report a man and woman had landed with a load of supplies in a boat which left without the woman.

Questioned yesterday, among others, was a young woman identified as a waitress at a Miami bar. She accompanied two agents to the F. B. I. office but came down alone after half an hour. She declined to discuss the case.

Christian Scientists are Urged to Guard Democracy

Roston—(AP)—Declaring governments "conceived largely in selfish ambition" cannot survive, the board of directors of the directors of the Church of Christ, Scientist, today asserted Christian Science students had "a definite responsibility" to preserve a system of government which protects the civil rights of the people and ensures freedom of speech, the press and religious worship.

The directors announced the election of Ralph Hastings Knapp of Needham as president of the mother church, to succeed Judge Clifford P. Smith of Newton. Knapp is a member of the faculty of Mechanic Arts High school, Boston.

Japanese Warplanes Damage French Hospital in Canton Bombardments

Canton, China—(AP)—Japanese warplanes rained bombs on this terrorized city in two punishing raids today and Chinese officials estimated the toll of dead or wounded at 1,500.

More than 100 bombs were dropped in two raids, at 8:30 and 10:30 a. m.

One bomb scored a direct hit on the French-owned Doumer hospital, killing two Chinese patients and wounding a French surgeon and many Chinese. One side of the building was blown out. (The French ambassador at Tientsin protested the bombing.)

The new raids lifted to 6,000 authoritative estimates of dead and wounded since May 28, when Japan began a crushing series of raids on this South China metropolis, through which a large part of China's war supplies from abroad entered.

Testimony in Board Quiz Is Trial Evidence

First Time Ruling Has Been Made Since Wagner Law Enactment

MAJOR U. S. VICTORY

Data at N. L. R. B. Hearing
Offered in Kentucky
Criminal Case

London, Ky.—(AP)—Federal District Judge H. Church Ford ruled today national labor relations board testimony was admissible as government evidence in the criminal trial of 44 Harlan counties charged with conspiring to keep coal miners from joining a union.

Judge Ford's ruling, announced at the opening of the trial's fourth week, reversed an opinion of 10 days ago.

It was an important victory for the government, which argued last week for the admission of testimony given at hearings by persons who are now defendants in the conspiracy trial.

Government attorneys said it was the first time since enactment of the Wagner labor relations act in 1935 that a federal judge had ruled whether labor board testimony subsequently could be used in a criminal proceeding against a witness.

Unthank's Testimony
After the ruling the government read into the Harlan labor trial record testimony by Ben Unthank before the N. L. R. B. that he was employed by the Harlan County Coal Operators' association to "interfere with organization of miners by the United Mine Workers of America."

Unthank was described by the government as "chief field agent" for the association. A ruddy, complacent-looking individual, Unthank was described in blunter terms at the Washington hearing last year as the association's "head road killer."

Unthank said he employed several men to "get information for me," some of which he subsequently reported to George Ward, secretary of the association, at night meetings in the latter's office.

Identified by "Number"
Asked whether the men, whom he said he could identify only by "number," were used as labor spies, Unthank replied he "guessed they would take jobs in the mines."

Judge Ford upheld a defense motion to exclude Unthank's testimony as to all defendants except himself. When Ward's N. L. R. B. testimony was read next he ruled it applied only to Ward.

Ward was asked during the hearing whether sums given Unthank for January and February, 1937, listed as $1,252 and $1,000 respectively, had been spent to "keep an eye on these organizers."

He replied:

"Most of it, yes."

Farmer Beaten, Robbed By Three Men, He Says

Prarie du Chien—(AP)—Otto Fritzsche, 50-year-old bachelor farmer, told authorities he was beaten by three masked bandits who robbed him of $69 yesterday.

Fritzsche said he was attacked by the men as he entered his barn to feed the horses. He displayed bruises to show where the bandits struck him with a length of garden hose.

They tied him up and took him into the farmhouse, he said, beating him until he told them where to find the money. Fritzsche said he saw one of his assailants pick up an envelope containing $600 and throw it down without looking in.

The men fled in his car which was abandoned later north of Prairie du Chien. Bloodhounds were brought from LaCrosse to trail the robbers, two of whom Fritzsche said appeared to be under 20 years of age and dressed in brown suits.

The third appeared older, he said, and wore a blue jacket and patched overalls.

Stowaways on British Ship to Return to U. S.

Washington—(AP)—The British government told the state department today that four young Americans who fled from Spain as stowaways on a British ship would be sent back to the United States.

The four, who had been fighting in the Spanish army, shipped aboard a freighter at Gibraltar last month. Ordinarily they would have been returned to Gibraltar and thence probably to Spain.

The state department asked their release partly on the plea of Mrs. Sally Keeler of Laguna Beach, Calif., the wife of one.

7 Drownings Are Reported In Wisconsin

Chicago Interior Decorator Falls From Boat Near Rock Island

ALL ARE ACCIDENTAL

Two of Victims Had Been Missing Since Earlier
Last Week

By the Associated Press
Seven men, the youngest 17 and the oldest 45, were reported drowned in widely separated locations in Wisconsin over the weekend. The dead were:

John Goodman, 45, Chicago.

Lester Hagenbough, 17, LaCrosse.

Robert Schmidt, 22, route 2, Oconomowoc.

John P. Nimesgern, Jr., 43, Port Washington.

Edward Marach, 45, Chicago.

Harold Olson, 19, Milwaukee.

Earl Albers, 21, Rockford, Ill.

The Hagenbough boy drowned at Gould's lake near LaCrosse. Sunday, diving from a boat and being unable to return to it. A companion, James Klein, was unable to help him.

Schmidt's body was found floating on Okauchee lake, Sunday. He had been fishing. A son, Leroy, 21, on a raft 5 feet away, saw his father in a futile rescue attempt.

Albers' body was recovered from Lake Waubesa near Madison Saturday night when he fell out of a boat while fishing. A son, Leroy, 21, on a raft 5 feet away, saw his father in a futile rescue attempt.

Goodman, well-known Chicago interior decorator, met his death accidentally early Sunday morning when he fell from a boat off Rock Island, near Washington island, according to a coroner's jury which met at Washington island Sunday afternoon.

Goodman's body was recovered by C. H. Thordarson, owner of the estate on Rock island, just before coast guardsmen arrived. According to the coast guard report, Goodman had apparently gone for a swim at the Thordarson boathouse after returning from a boat ride and had struck his head on some object under water when he dove.

Goodman, a vacation guest at the Thordarson estate on the island, was born in Reykjavik, Iceland.

Monopolies Quiz Is Given Approval

Senate Committee Authorizes $500,000 for Costs
Of Investigation

Washington—(AP)—The senate judiciary committee approved today a broad investigation into monopolistic trends in industry and finance.

The inquiry would be made by a committee composed of six members of congress and five representatives of federal agencies. A fund of $500,000 would be authorized for costs.

Committee members said the investigation approved followed outlines of President Roosevelt's recent message to congress as embodied in a resolution by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.).

Senator Burke (D-Neb.), a member of the judiciary committee, said three members of both the house and senate would serve along with representatives of the treasury, commerce and justice departments and the federal trade and securities commissions in making the study.

Burke said the broad investigation, intended to furnish a background for possible revision of present anti-trust laws, probably would get under way shortly after congress adjourns. A report would be made at the next session.

Resume Buckman Trial Today in Milwaukee

Milwaukee—(AP)—The trial of three officers of B. E. Buckman and Company was to be resumed this afternoon, with indications that the case based on alleged violations of the state blue sky securities law would be concluded early this week.

Special Prosecutor Bruno V. Bitker said the state would call no more than half a dozen witnesses, instead of 40 as originally intended. The action followed a plea of nolo contendere entered in behalf of the defendants—B. E. Buckman, Louis George and Edgar C. Holt—last Wednesday.

Senate Conferees Favor Compromise On Wage-Hour Bill

PWA Engineers Ready to Speed 2,000 Projects

Prepared to Start as Soon
As Spending Bill Goes
To White House

Washington—(AP)—Recommendations for an immediate start on 2,000 public works projects costing $650,000,000 will be made by PWA engineers as soon as congress sends the spending-lending bill to the White House.

The projects were held over from the previous public works program because of lack of funds. States and cities will contribute about $200,000,000, and the remaining $450,000,000 will come from federal loans and grants.

In addition, PWA officials said today, applications are expected for more than 4,000 new projects which would cost about $1,554,000,000.

The spending-lending bill, approved by both senate and house in slightly different forms, provides $965,000,000 for public works. The measure may not be ready for President Roosevelt's signature until next week, as a joint committee will have to iron out the differences.

Speed up Pace
Meanwhile the works progress administration stepped up the pace of work relief enrollment to 30,000 a week in anticipation of $1,425,000,000 which the bill allots it for the next seven months.

The WPA expects to increase its rolls from a current total of 2,679,656 to an average of 2,800,000 persons and a peak enrollment of 3,000,000 or more.

It will spend $50,000,000 for direct relief of unemployed, chiefly in industrial centers, where food and clothing will be provided through the surplus commodities corporation.

Two prominent Republican legislators expressed criticism last night of the administration's relief and unemployment policies.

Senator McNary of Oregon, minority leader, declared administration forces in the senate made a "major mistake" in voting down restrictions on political activity of WPA employees.

"The implication is clear," he said, "that a portion of these relief funds will be used for political purposes, thereby depriving those in need of relief from a free exercise of their opinions."

Representative Bruce Barton (R-N.Y.) said in a statement that all congress is doing is sprinkling legislative talcum powder on the running sore of unemployment.

Murphy Defends Civil Service in Michigan

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—Governor Murphy renewed his alliance with the cause of civil service today, accepting the challenge of Edward J. Fry, Michigan Democratic chairman, whose criticism of state personnel policies fell Friday night like a bombshell in party ranks.

"So long as I am governor of this state," Murphy declared, "I shall continue to go right down the line for civil service."

"Every assault of that kind will make every real friend of civil service in Michigan a stronger friend," Murphy said. "It is the merit system of government that is at stake, but that is not all. Our good faith is involved, our integrity as public officials."

Trial on Racket Charge Postponed at New York

New York—(AP)—The trial of J. Richard "Dixie" Davis and 14 others accused of controlling the policy game racket in New York city was postponed indefinitely today by the state supreme court.

The action was taken at the request of the district attorney's office because of a superseding indictment, re-naming the same defendants and adding to their number James J. Hines, powerful Tammany district leader.

Burglar Enters Jewelry Store by Mistake, Leaves It for Pool Room

Menasha—(AP)—Walker Boreson, 23, 236 Fifth street, Neenah, is a conservative Jew. He prefers a pool hall to a jewelry store, even though the jewelry store might be readily available. He proved that early Sunday morning.

Boreson, according to the story he told Police Chief Alex Slomski, came home Saturday night. He decided that instead of going to bed he would borrow his father's bicycle and break into Ciske Boreson's pool room, located at 207 Main street in this city.

He peddled down to the Elisha D. Smith public library and hid the bicycle in the shrubbery. Then he walked to the rear of a building which he took to be the pool room and deftly outwitted the locks on two doors.

LEAVES VIENNA

London—(AP)—Dr. Sigmund Freud (above) a sad, white-whiskered old man, arrived in London today from Nazi Vienna in search of "peace and quiet."

The 82-year-old "father of psychoanalysis" was accompanied by his wife, his daughter Anna, and his son Ernst, a London architect.

Gillette Facing Test at Polls in Iowa's Primary

Record on New Deal Legislation Major Issue
In Election

Des Moines, Ia.—(AP)—Senator Guy M. Gillette's record on New Deal legislation was undergoing the acid test today before an estimated 150,000 or more Democratic primary voters in Iowa.

Seeking party nomination to the senate's seat in congress are four other candidates, including Representative Otha D. Wearin.

The Republican senatorial battle is a two-way affair, with former Senator L. J. Dickinson and Representative Lloyd Thurston the competitors.

Up for political appraisal as factors in the candidacy of Gillette and Wearin are:

1. The 1938 value of a platform of unqualified New Deal support versus the retention of the right of individual judgment on each New Deal proposal.

2. The effect on WPA voters of the endorsement of Wearin by WPA Chief, Harry L. Hopkins.

3. The value of an inferential endorsement by James Roosevelt in his mention of "my friend Wearin" in a telegram.

The polls opened at 7 o'clock a. m. and will close at 8 o'clock p. m.

Amateur Poet Is Found Slain in Massachusetts

Worcester, Mass.—(AP)—The last 45 minutes in the life of Thomas A. O'Connell, 32, amateur poet, was the focus today of the police investigation of his brutal murder.

Captain of Detectives John J. Kalagher and his investigators have found witnesses who saw O'Connell alive at 1:45 a. m. His body, the face battered, was found in a park at 7:30. Medical Examiner John H. Ward set the hour of death at 2:30.

What happened between 1:45 and 2:30 police will try to glean today from the stories of several persons.

Still admittedly at a loss for a motive, Captain Kalagher said the questioning will seek to determine with whom O'Connell talked in a cafe where he spent the morning.

He left shortly after midnight and three witnesses later saw him trying to "hitch" a ride to his home, some two miles away.

Kalagher said there was a possibility that O'Connell was not slain in the park, since his clothes were dry but the grass was wet with rain.

Virtually in Accord on Boards Within Each Industry

ACCEPTANCE SEEN

House Members Debate
Similar Plan at Separate Session

Washington—(AP)—Senate members of a congressional committee drafting a compromise wage-hour bill said today they had about agreed to support a proposal for individual wage standard boards within each industry.

Two members coming out of a separate session of the senate conferees said sentiment indicated acceptance of a plan proposed by Senator Thomas (D-Utah), chairman of the senate labor committee.

House conferees, meeting separately, were considering a somewhat similar proposal.

Under the Thomas proposal a minimum wage of 25 cents an hour would become effective in all interstate industries 120 days after the bill becomes law. One year later, the minimum wage would be advanced to 27 1/2 cents an hour. The next year this minimum would go up to 30 cents.

When this point had been reached the president would be empowered to appoint boards for industries which contended that further advances in the minimum wage would cause reduced employment.

Board Would Act
These boards would be composed of representatives of employers, employees and the public. After the board had canvassed the industry, it would report to the labor department the minimum wage, which could be paid without causing unemployment. In no case would this be less than 30 cents an hour.

If the labor department was dissatisfied with the board's findings it could void them and ask for the appointment of another board.

The ultimate goal would be a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour, but the senate conferees still were not agreed on whether a time limit on reaching that mark should be set.

Earlier, congressional leaders who discussed with President Roosevelt the chances of adjourning congress this week end agreed it could be done if there were an early agreement on the wage hour bill.

Reports Progress
Representative Rayburn of Texas, the house Democratic leader, said the president was told that progress had been made with the wage-hour measure by the committee of senators and representatives drafting a compromise bill.

He added that the last major bill of the session, a $300,000,000 deficiency measure, would be reported to the house tomorrow and probably would be passed Wednesday.

Others at the regular weekly conference were Vice President Garner and Speaker Bankhead. Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the senate majority leader, went home Saturday for a week end visit.

Although conferees on the wage-hour bill are optimistic about reaching an agreement in a few days, they still are divided on the issue of fixing labor standards irrevocably in the law or setting up a new agency to grant exemptions.

Opposition to complicated administrative machinery was voiced in a radio speech last night by William E. Miller.

Asks O'Malley to Aid In Philippine Unrest

Manila—(AP)—Carlo Lapus, Philippine socialist leader, today radioed Representative Thomas O'Malley (D-Wis.) urging congressional intervention to quiet labor unrest in central Luzon island.

Lapus has demanded impeachment of President Manuel Quezon because of a statement attributed to the president that he would maintain order even if he "had to order the killing of some people to do so."

"Because tenant farmers hold lawful meetings for redress of grievances by landlords," Lapus radioed to O'Malley said, "Quezon is threatening to order mass assassinations, with government forces as his tools."

"Only impeachment, with pressure from congress, could make him comply with the constitution and stop his autocratic dictatorial abuses."

Man Sought in Slaying Of His Estranged Wife

Omaha, Iowa—(AP)—Police launched a search today for Norbert Heying, 34, of New Vienna, Iowa, who, Police Chief John Gielis said, shot and killed his estranged wife, Irma, 30, at her home here early today.

A 10-year-old daughter of the couple heard the shot and ran to the home of a neighbor, who notified police. The bullet entered Mrs. Heying's chest.

Chief Gielis said neighbors reported Heying fled from the scene of the shooting in an automobile, leaving his hat and coat behind.

Premier Hodza in Repudiation of Slovakian Claims

Says Minority Group 'Can Speak Only for Their Party'

Bratislava, Czechoslovakia.—(AP)—In a fighting speech, cheered by a great crowd, Premier Milan Hodza today repudiated the claim of Father Andrej Hlinka and his Slovakian autonomist followers to speak in the name of this republic's Slovakian minority.

"They can speak only for their party," declared the premier, himself a Slovak, "and your presence here—waving his arm toward the cheering crowd—"is the best answer to what they said here yesterday."

"We of the republic declare to the world that we are carrying on . . . We are solid and unshakable as a rock. We will not permit anyone to destroy our republic."

Hodza threw the whole weight of his influence into efforts to solve dangerous problems arising from the demands of Father Hlinka's group for Slovakian autonomy, another disruptive factor added to the autonomy agitations carried on by German, Polish and Hungarian minorities.

Hostile Demonstration
The premier arrived amid echoes of a hostile demonstration yesterday by the Hlinka party. Hodza sought to answer the autonomists' display by a more powerful one to Czechoslovak unity.

"There are moments," the premier continued, "when it is doubtful whether we could maintain order within our boundaries—whether we could show ourselves worthy of our independence. We are a calm people, but when the moment comes we can show that we fear nothing and nobody. Our people are heroic not only in patience but also in determination. This has been recognized by the great democracies of Britain, France and the United States."

How seriously Prague regards the situation was indicated by the fact that Hodza found it necessary to interrupt his program of conversations with other minority groups—such as the Sudeten Germans, Hungarians and Poles—in order to clarify, first of all, relations between the Czechs and Slovaks.

Blame Small Group
Until now government spokesmen repeatedly have emphasized that the problem of satisfying other demands for national minorities had nothing to do with Czech-Slovak relations, which have been harmonious.

The Hlinka movement, they said, represented only an extremely small group of discontented Slovaks.

(Czechs and Slovaks are closely related, probably having sprung from the same sources. Before the world war Czechs, however, came under Austrian rule while Slovaks remained for a thousand years under Hungarian rule.)

(When, after the World war, the Czechoslovak republic was created, some Slovaks agreed to submerge their differences for the sake of national unity. Others, however, steadfastly have insisted greater allowance should have been made for the differences between them and the more numerous Czechs.)

BRITISH SHIP ABLAZE
Madrid.—(AP)—Insurgent warplanes left 21 persons dead, 100 wounded and another British ship ablaze in a fierce foray today over Alicante, 75 miles south of Valencia on the eastern Mediterranean coast.

The dead included three British members of the crew of the S. 775, ton British freighter St. Winifred, which was damaged in an earlier bombing of Alicante May 21. Others were nine women, a child and two Alicante stevedores.

After setting the St. Winifred afire, the planes bombed sections of the city near the harbor and 12 buildings were wrecked.

This and other raids along the coast followed a week in which more than 400 persons died in aerial bombardments and in which new protests came from neutral nations.

German Planes Blamed
Five German-made Junker planes carried out the assault on Alicante. Several houses in the center of the city were shattered. The bodies of the nine women and the child were taken from these ruins.

Only Saturday the B. 7, tanker Maryad was bombed near Alicante by a seaplane and a government communiqué from Barcelona said four of the crew were killed.

Valencia, former provisional capital of the government, suburban towns and Sagunto, another port to its north, also were bombed today.

The raiders shot at a Valencia water front (active at 11 a. m.). An entire family of four adults and three children were killed.

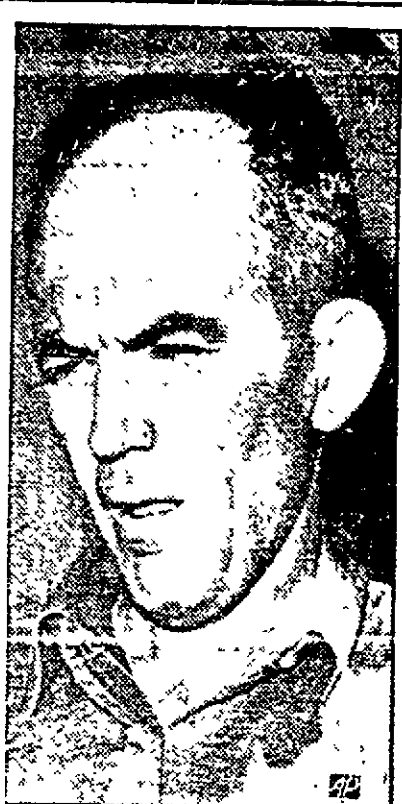

Twenty-two buildings in the port section were destroyed according to the casualties. The harbormaster, however, said most of the bombs fell into the water. Ships in port escaped damage.

Appleton Men Attend Watchmakers' Parley

Senate Conferees Favor Compromise On Wage-Hour Bill

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, also demanded that the floor for wages and the ceiling for hours be nationally uniform.

Some of the conferees said privately Green's espousal of these principles, similar to those in the house measure, was anticipated and therefore would have little effect.

Green declared the A. F. of L. is "unalterably opposed to the senate bill because it actually is not a minimum wage and maximum hour bill at all."

If the conferees accept some of the "bad features" of the senate measure, he declared, the federation will fight acceptance of its compromise by the senate and house.

The conferees committee met one of Green's demands in part last week by fixing 25 cents an hour as an immediate "bedrock wage" for all persons employed in occupations linked to interstate commerce.

There will be no exceptions to that standard, even if exemptions from other provisions are allowed.

The committee has encountered difficulties in attempting to find a formula by which that minimum wage can be increased gradually to 40 cents an hour.

Southerners Firm
Several solutions have been advanced, but all have run against the determination of southerners to have lower wage minima than the north and east.

Bowing somewhat to this demand, northern and eastern members of the committee have proposed limited exemptions for whole industries, considered on a nationwide basis.

The wary southerners gave this proposal a lukewarm endorsement, adding that they wanted the agency granting the exemptions to consider all factors in living conditions.

They pointed out the living costs are lower in the south.

But just when the committee appeared to be getting somewhere with this proposal, Senator Walsh (D-Mass.) moved Saturday to adopt the house bill and extend to five years the period during which the minimum wage would be advanced

Franco Tries to Prevent Conflict Between Allies And Insurgent Officers

Hendae, France, at the Spanish Frontier.—(AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco was reported today to have ordered severe measures to avoid open conflict between his Spanish insurgent officers and their blackshirt Italian allies.

Franco was said to have left the eastern war front, where his drive on Valencia was virtually halted by government militiamen, to hold a hurried council of war at Burgos, seat of the insurgent government.

The meeting was called, insurgent sources said, following fights between insurgent and Italian officers, the most serious taking place at Malaga and Zaragoza, where they engaged in fistfights and exchanged revolver shots a week ago.

These sources said Franco had ordered the arrest of a number of his officers as an indication of his continued friendship and cooperation with Italy, which has been one of his heaviest backers in the civil war.

Insurgents Resentful
"Travelers reaching Gibraltar quoted insurgent officers as expressing resentment at the dictatorial attitude" of the Italian officers and expressing fears that the Italians and Germans intended to maintain a military hold on the country when the war ends.

Except for slight insurgent gains in the Albacete sector, the battle along the 60-mile front from the mountains east of Teruel to the Mediterranean was stalemated.

Insurgent dispatches reported Franco's advance guard had advanced to within two miles of Albacete, key to Castellon de La Plana and Valencia in the southward drive down the coast.

This, however, would mean a gain of less than a mile in three days of hand-to-hand fighting in the hills northeast of the town.

Government dispatches said the insurgent attack on Mora de Rubielos, key to the Teruel-Mediterranean highway on the western flank of the front, was definitely halted.

A column attacking Mora from the north has been held up ten miles from the town for three weeks, the dispatches said, while one approaching from the west has been blocked for eight days at Valencia, five miles from Mora.

Milk Producers' Group To Meet in Cincinnati
Washington.—(AP)—The National Cooperative Milk Producers' federation will hold its twenty-second annual convention in Cincinnati on Nov. 14, 15 and 16.

The federation includes 58 cooperatives.

Inquest Ordered In Deaths of Two Indian Brothers

Third Brother Accused of Slayings on Red Cliff Reservation

Bayfield, Wis.—(AP)—An inquest was ordered for today into the deaths of Simon and Billy Bear, Indian brothers, slain in a battle on the Red Cliff reservation near here early Sunday.

Coroner Robert North of Iron River said his investigations indicated that Simon, 39, and Billy, 32, had quarreled with a third brother, Louis, during a drinking party.

Billy Bear was shot in the abdomen, while Simon's body was found in the woods nearby. North said he believed Simon died as a result of a blow from a sharp instrument which penetrated the brain.

Simon's body was wrapped in a blanket when discovered.

Held in the Bayfield county jail for questioning, North said, were Louis, and Simon's widow, Hattie. North, with Sheriff Hjalmar Frostman and District Attorney W. E. Norlin of Bayfield, quoted Billy's widow, Rosie, as saying a drinking party had been going on at Billy's home late Saturday night, and that Louis and Billy argued over the coffee to mix with alcohol for "coffee royals."

Rosie, authorities said, declared Simon interfered, and all three went outside. Simon then came in with a rifle in his hands, police quoted her as saying, and told her he had slain his brother. Simon fled, she said, and she ran to notify authorities.

Officials reported when they arrived Louis attempted to run, but stopped when they fired at him. They said Rosie was unable to inform them how Billy's body happened to be in his room.

A search was conducted for the weapons.

Gillette Facing Test in Primary

Predictions by state central committee chairman forecast a primary total somewhat above the 400,000 mark.

Democratic Chairman E. H. Birmingham said he expected 175,000 primary voters would vote in his party's primary. Republican Chairman Carl Cook predicted G. O. P. candidates would poll "almost as many votes as two years ago," when top-of-the-ticket candidates rolled up a 260,000-vote volume.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, yesterday stepped into the Iowa platform with a telegraphic endorsement of Senator Gillette.

The senator last night closed his campaign by declaring that he has not been "and will not be a rubber stamp member of the congress."

FIND BODY OF MAN

State to Honor Memory Of 'Old Bob' LaFollette

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison.—Thirteen years have passed since they buried "Old Bob" LaFollette in beautiful Forest Hill cemetery in the state capital after the biggest state funeral which Wisconsin ever saw.

During those years many of the ideas for which he fought during a whole lifetime have become legal realities. During those years his sons have succeeded him as leaders in the national political spotlight, the political movement which he organized and led for decades has become a full-blown party, and the dynasty which he began continues to rule Wisconsin.

And during those years the spirit of Wisconsin's most famous politician, of whom he was the last, lives on. This year, as every year since his death, his old friends, followers and admirers will gather at the grave in the cemetery here to do honor to the man who has achieved the rank of Wisconsin's foremost statesman. The annual LaFollette memorial service will be held at Forest Hill cemetery.

Then from all over Wisconsin where survivors of the hectic struggles of two, three and four decades ago remain will come men and women to participate in a unique ceremony. There they will mingle with a distinguished company of intellectuals from universities, farmers, city factory workmen, and the few political contemporaries of the old LaFollette party who still survive.

They will stand with the old man's sons and grandchildren respectfully listening to eulogies of his achievements during one of the most dramatic periods of Wisconsin history.

This year the principal speaker will be Congressman Gerald J. Bohlen of Wausau, who was only a high school boy during the elder LaFollette's heyday, but who has risen rapidly in the ranks of the party which was formed after his death.

They will stand with the old man's sons and grandchildren respectfully listening to eulogies of his achievements during one of the most dramatic periods of Wisconsin history.

Republicans Restore Peace, Adopt Platform, at Fond du Lac Meeting

Fond du Lac.—Voters of Wisconsin today were presented with a state-lined platform of principles, plenty of candidates, and a revived party organization by Wisconsin's Republican party, whose members ended their two-day pep meeting here Saturday acting as though they have every hope of capturing a good slice of the state and congressional offices which the voters will fill in the fall election.

Firing the opening salvos of their biennial campaign fully a month before their Democratic and Progressive enemies will get underway, 1,500 delegates to the 1938 Republican state convention went home Saturday in a happy frame of mind, having accomplished little that was concrete, but having imbued each other with the idea that this is their year to come through after a series of election years in which their harvest of votes was discouragingly meagre.

Impression among the 1,500 delegates that all is not well between them. The joint committee, it was hoped, will restore them to cooperative harmony so that the campaign can be run at the highest efficiency.

Whether Sampa will be a candidate for reelection to the party's executive, or voluntary committee, remained a question at the close of the convention. If he does, insiders expect that he will have opposition, since several of his supporters were lost in the shuffle when the district caucus results came in.

The new committee's personnel by congressional districts: First, W. J. Tucker, Beloit; Mrs. Marian Freitag, Williams Bay; second, Allen Young, Waukesha; Mrs. Sadie Rasmussen, Madison; third, Lloyd Newman, New Diggings; Mrs. Wynn Ferris, Tomah; fourth, Herbert A. Braun, Wauwatosa; Mrs. F. J. Ruck, Milwaukee; fifth, Ed. Millott, Milwaukee; Mrs. Gladys Surles, Milwaukee; sixth, Chester D. Shepard, Menasha; Mrs. Margaret Hess, Adell; seventh, R. L. Evans.

After two days filled with noisy demonstrations, fence-building by eager aspirants for a dozen state and congressional offices, and endless speeches favoring God and country and damning the nefarious designs of the LaFollette and Roosevelt governments, the convention got down to business in the closing hours of the session Saturday afternoon to some of the serious work which the older, soberer heads of the party realize is essential to a successful bid for ballot-box support this fall.

The platform of principles presented by the resolutions committee, several of which were suggested by Eighth district delegates and presented by Assemblyman Mark Catlin of Outagamie county, was generally conceded to be an improvement over the credo put forth in the last two state campaigns. It was a clear adoption of the wishes of the young men in the party, who were conspicuously present in all the deliberations, and who gave notice in their convention at Oshkosh two weeks ago that they intend to have something to say in the conduct of their party fight this year.

Something of the Republican state of mind in Wisconsin this year can be gathered from that platform. Brief, it studiously avoided the wordy, almost meaningless generalities which politicians are so wont to put forward. Noticeable too—especially after the barrage of the nunciatory oratory which filled the first and most of the second day of the convention—was the absence of "smearing."

Delegates who were not busy planting booms for favorite candidates during the meeting congratulated themselves that much of the bad-feeling which is bound to be engendered when a convention names a favored slate of candidates was missing at adjournment.

Afraid of Defeat
It was plain, however, that the only reason an attempt was not made to follow the system of endorsements which has been used since 1925 was that no single candidate felt strong enough to introduce such a motion and thus run the danger of giving himself a black eye at the start. Until the fall session it was expected that the boosters of Julius F. Heil the Milwaukee industrialist who had a corps of campaign workers at the meeting, would bring on the floor a motion to endorse him as the party's candidate for governor. A plan will among the rank and file candidates for a free-for-all primary, however, discouraged such a project.

The mysterious rivalry which is supposed to exist between the machine headed by Dr. F. L. Gullickson and Edward J. Sampa of the statutory and voluntary committees broke out again with the resolution to mend the situation by the appointment of a coordinating committee. Having every appearance of being personal friends, and denying at every opportunity that there is any animosity between them, Sampa and Gullickson nevertheless left the impression among the 1,500 delegates that all is not well between them. The joint committee, it was hoped, will restore them to cooperative harmony so that the campaign can be run at the highest efficiency.

Maybe the Old Deal Era Wasn't So Bad After All

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Next time Mr. Roosevelt or honest Hal Ickes, the house dick of the New Deal, or Wallace or Jackson or any of those honorary proletarians who swing towels in that corner of the ring sounds off in disrespect of the old deal I would appreciate it if somebody would refresh my memory on just what was wrong with it. Because, chums, checking over my recollections, that seems to have been a pretty fair sort of era, especially by comparison with this New Deal period, and if there was anything to be sore about I want to do my duty.

Wasn't that the time when they were sticking up tall buildings in all the big towns and building swell new suburbs and kicking out new cars by the millions, including some which retailed for around $6,000 and, what's more, selling them? Wasn't everybody working who could or would work? Weren't fight tickets selling for $55 a copy at the box office and $100 at the gyms, and weren't ordinary, forgotten men able to fish up the price of $25 seats a couple of times a year? Check the files and see.

Pegler Remember how it was almost impossible to get a kid to run copy or get a can of coffee for you because they were all over in the corner reading the tape? Not the baseball tape either. Hell, no, pals! They were reading that stock tape and forming little syndicates and buying stuff on margin and making money at it, too.

The Iowa farmers were selling out and hauling away for southern California and Florida to take it easy, and ditch labor got $6 a day around here, anyway, and skilled men—some of whom weren't so very skilled, at that—got 10, 12, 20.

What do you want to get that Jim Farley's business has made half as much under this New Deal that he goes around making neck sounds, but not heart sounds, about in duty speeches for the boss and the party as it made under the rotten Republicans?

Prohibition Wasn't so Dad Toward the last And taxel's Friend, who ever mentioned taxes in those days?

And if it's a question of wage levels are you telling me that wages are higher under the New Deal after—how long is it—six years than under the old?

I do remember being pretty sore about prohibition, but, to be fair, it wasn't so bad after bootlegging got organized, and, moreover, we fostered a fine domestic skill in those days which is rapidly vanishing from our civilization now. I refer to the home manufacture of gin, beer and wine. Remember, you got a can of alky and some distilled water and some gin drops and a little bottle of glycerine, and it was as much a part of man's domestic duties to sling a batch of gin together once a week as to bake a mess of bread back in the 1900s.

All gone now under repeal, and the poor doctors have lost a very reliable source of practice, in addition to which, with much less dough, the people have to pay much more for their square face, most of it for taxes, licenses and color-glass pictures of pretty models in glove-tight swimming suits in the ads.

It's Time for New Deal To Show Stuff on Ball Yes, I know, the banker and speculators and hustlers showed us a lot of wall-paper stocks and bonds, and everybody was knocked in the creek when the wagon threw a wheel. But you wait and see what happens to Morgenthau's mavericks one of these days and then tell me whether, and if so, why, it's any more fun to be hooked by a political party and a lot of wabble-wits stuck away in offices in Washington than by a banker. Henry Morgenthau, for gossakes! Why, old Andy Mellow could have stolen his fillings right out of his face with boxing gloves on without Henry's even knowing it. Henry isn't the one who is shoving the queer. He just runs the building. You know, okay orders for so many mops and so many gross of paper clips and so many tons of spare parts for adding machines to keep track of that deficit. And the tape is a year behind, at that.

Just don't know, neighbor. For a long time when I would hear them say old deal in that curl-of-the-lip way I went along, too, feeling that, yes, it certainly was terrible, but let me ask you this:—How were you doing back in those terrible days, and if this New Deal is going to be so swell when are those boys going to get through that long wind-up and let us see what they've got on the ball?

26 Plumbing Permits Issued During Month Twenty-six plumbing permits were issued during May by the city plumbing inspector, George E. Gauslin. During the month, the inspector made 10 furnace inspections, 8 final inspections, 60 roughing inspections and 40 sewer inspections.

Fees collected during the month totaled $124.50, bringing the amount collected since Jan. 1 to $358, Gauslin reported. Work done under the permits granted included the repair of nine sewers, installation of water service at five houses, installation of heating units at 12 houses and the installation of 20 sewers.

The Dog Owner and His Dog

BY ALLAN KERR

A Sheboygan reader of this column, referring to the tattoo system of marking dogs for identification, recently wrote us as follows: I am quite sure this can be worked up into a state wide plan, and the Wisconsin Dog Protective association would be glad to sponsor some legislative movement to have the state register the numbers tattooed on the dogs' ears, if everything can be worked out satisfactorily. Or a joint sponsorship between the Northwestern Wisconsin Kennel club, the W.D.P.A. and any other organization that might be interested, could be worked out.

This letter is typical of many that have been received since our article, "Hot Dogs—Wisconsin Style," appeared in the April issue of National Sportsman. The Chase, a magazine devoted to fox hunting, and published in Lexington, Kentucky, reprinted the article in their May issue. They are sponsoring a tattoo-registration plan for fox-hounds, and make the following editorial comment.

"Timely Article" "We are publishing a timely article written by Allan Kerr and published in a recent issue of National Sportsman. We ask every fox hunter to read this over carefully, remembering that The Chase has established a tattoo registration bureau for you. The tattoo tongs mentioned are the same that we furnish you—Each hound will carry an identifying number assigned by us and the number kept on file in this office with a detailed description of the hound tattooed.

Remember, a tattooed hound is a tattooed hound to the dog thief. In order to enlighten those who may not be familiar with the plan, we quote from the "Hot Dogs" article.

"It takes no great amount of imagination to appreciate how helpful a permanently fixed mark of identification can be when a valuable sporting canine suddenly drops from sight. Where this system is in use, all of the club's large membership are immediately on the alert. They check the right ear of every hunting dog they see of the breed that is missing.

The city police, the county sheriff's office, and the poundmaster are able to locate the owner quickly when the dog is found. If a long search proves necessary, school children, gas station attendants, and other persons about town make a regular game out of the hunt for the missing animal—and a surprisingly large number are recovered in this way.

Must Have Certificate "The fact that the owner of a tattooed dog is expected to have a certificate to prove it, is most discouraging to those who would possess a dog illegally. The plan might be compared to the title arrangement used in the licensing of cars in many states. The title stays with the car until it is junked. Likewise, the certificate stays with the marked dog until the day when he departs for the Happy Hunting Grounds.

"If the dog is thought to have been stolen, clubs in other parts of the state are immediately notified of the loss and are given the description of the dog and the tattoo number. There is now a move afoot to unite these various organizations into one large state association with a central list and found clearing house."

Letters from dog owners who are interested in the plan are very welcome, and we urge all who can to attend the Sheboygan meeting of the Northwestern Wisconsin Kennel club on June 16, when John Koehler, Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin Dog Protective association, will be the speaker of the evening.

19 Traffic Accidents Reported During May Nineteen traffic accidents, six involving pedestrians, were reported in Appleton during May, according to a report of Sergeant Carl Radtke of the police traffic division. Eight of the accidents involved property damage while five persons were injured. Eleven of the crashes occurred at arterials. In May of 1937 there were 23 traffic accidents reported while April of this year showed 11.

$85,000 Provided For Prison Work

President Approves WPA Project for Reformatory Improvements

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau. Washington—The president has approved an $85,585 WPA project covering improvements to the state reformatory at Allouez, Brown county, Congressman George J. Schneider, of Appleton, announces, as well as two smaller projects in Marinette and Oconto counties.

The state reformatory improvements are expected to include construction of a barn, additions, athletic field, tunnel, floors, roofs and partitions as well as painting, venting, waterproofing, also widening and surfacing of roadways and laying of watermain with hydrants.

In Marinette county, a $2,052 project will cover improvements to the city hall building; and in Oconto county, a county-wide project for $4,362, with headquarters at Oconto, will provide employment for needy professional, educational and clerical persons in repairing and cleaning books for the public schools throughout the county.

Upon final clearance by the comptroller general, the above projects will become eligible for operation at the discretion of State WPA Administrator Philip Flanner.

Picture-Laden Ariel Hits Lawrence College Campus

The yearbook is dedicated to Dr. James S. Reeve and a full-page picture of him appears on the fourth page. The following citation is written on an opposite page: "The student body of Lawrence college takes pleasure in dedicating the 1938 yearbook to one closely associated with Lawrence, an alumnus, trustee, and loyal friend, Dr. James S. Reeve."

Departing from the usual "stiff shirt" faculty pictures, the book presents professors and instructors in "at ease" moments. Besides formal pictures of graduating seniors, "on the street" and "on the campus" glimpses of each are strung along the bottom of pages in the senior section.

One of the book's features is the section of pictures of Lawrence beauties, six of whom were designated by Hal Kemp, well known orchestra leader, as the "most beautiful."

Sport and activities departments are sprinkled with attractive, sprightly pictures.

Grace Cooley of Oshkosh was editor-in-chief of this year's Ariel and Thomas Jacobs of Chicago was business manager.

Growth of Trailer Travel Increases Need for Camps

BY CARL W. MASON

OTTUMWA, Iowa—The opening about this time of the rush season of trailer touring, especially through the northern states, emphasizes one of the important needs of the trailer activity. That is more and better—bigger and better—trailer camps. While there has been a general movement to provide accommodations for trailerists throughout the country it has scarcely kept pace with the growth of trailer travel. In the south the last winter, with all the resort features stressed there, the trailer camp facilities were crowded and more than crowded, it is stated. Now the big season of the year—the summer vacation period—is likely to find the north equally as ill-prepared to care for the visiting hosts.

The larger communities are the most advanced in trailer camps, as a rule. It is the smaller towns and cross roads where the weary traveler often finds himself stranded or desirous of stopping for the night that furnish the problem of camp facilities. Cabin camps are found everywhere, even in most small towns. The majority of these cabin camps do not have space for trailerists, many can accommodate one or two and so go gingerly on meager space. Other cabin camp owners have obtained additional ground or made use of existing available space to handle a few trailers but they are a sideline and apt to be treated with a respectful indifference. The number of all trailer camps in the smaller communities, those offering any adequate sort of accommodations, are comparatively few.

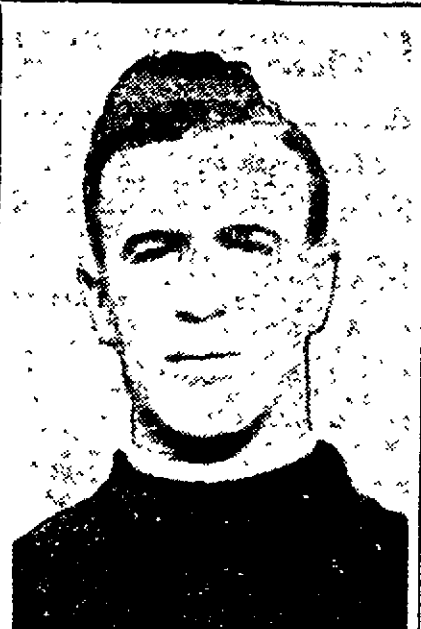

Trailer Camp Pays

Any town can make a trailer camp pay if it will exert even a moderate effort to do so. At Shawano lake, the county park is a haven for hundreds of trailerists every season. I noted an average of about 75 camps during two trips to that spot last season. Shawano has little to offer that Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and many other laggard cities do not possess. The Fox river and Lake Winnebago can be made as attractive as Shawano lake and there are plenty of golf, sight seeing, superior shopping facilities and points of interest to visit that even Shawano lake cannot boast. Provide the camp and the trailers will come and when they come they bring plenty of cash for local spending. One may easily compute the large sums spent in Shawano during the months of last summer by the county park residents—some of whom spent the entire season there—to say nothing of the several hundred camp families who were at the Keshena convention for from two to four weeks.

The opening of the summer rush season in touring at this time brings up another matter of importance to those who are planning to secure trailers and embark upon this modern day method of camping in comfort during travels brief or extended. That is, what sort of a trailer to buy. At the risk of causing mental anguish to some of my dealer friends I have some special advice to the tyro at trailoring. Here it is:

Practically no person who has never traveled and lived in a trailer really knows what it is all about until he gets out on the road and has recorded some months of varied experience. He does not know what his needs will be or what he will want for his comfort and convenience. That knowledge can only come by practice and the experience of others.

Marvin Kempen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Kempen, underwent an appendectomy at St. Elizabeth hospital, Appleton.

Hortonville Pioneer Was Famous Drum, Fife Player

Hortonville — Joseph Birmingham, 85, Hortonville pioneer who died at his home early Saturday morning, was too young to enter the Civil war but he walked from his home near Hortonville to New London in August of 1861 to play the snare drum with his father and older brother as they piped a group of volunteers on their way to war. Active until the last few weeks of his life, Mr. Birmingham had not missed a single G. A. R. state encampment since the return of the soldiers in 1865 and had attended more than 18 national encampments. At all encampments he played the fife or drum and won two national championships in successive days at Minneapolis 22 years ago.

Mr. Birmingham was born in a log cabin in 1853 near Hortonville and spent his entire life in or near the village. For over 60 years, he drove race horses in practically every county fair in Wisconsin and probably had more ribbons than any other driver in the state.

For over 50 years, Mr. Birmingham was known throughout this region as the best fiddler obtainable and a barn dance or school function was hardly complete without Joe Birmingham on hand to play the violin. In late years he declined more and more invitations to play at dances. He was grieved when he was unable to march and play in the Memorial day parade here this year.

Funeral services will be conducted at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon at the residence and at 2 o'clock at the Baptist church by the Rev. L. T. Foreman. Burial will be in the Union cemetery here.

FUNERAL TUESDAY

Funeral services for Joseph Birmingham, 85, Hortonville pioneer who died early Saturday morning, will be conducted at Hortonville Tuesday afternoon. Active until the last few weeks of his life, Mr. Birmingham was noted for his drum, fife and violin talents and won acclaim throughout the state as a horse racer.

Treasury Again 'Sterilizing' Its New Gold to Provide Supply for Sale Abroad

Washington—(U)—The treasury, in effect, has been "sterilizing" its new gold again.

Since its "inactive fund" was closed out April 14 and a $1,400,000,000 hoard of inactive gold released into credit channels, treasury statements show $93,500,000 of gold has been acquired.

That amount of gold has been added to the treasury's general fund, where it is shut off from the stream of credit much the same as was the gold in the "inactive fund."

The main purpose of this new step, officials said today, is to build up a pile of unpledged gold for sale to any foreign government that might want it. No such sales have been made recently, but France bought about $40,000,000 of American gold last winter.

Ordinarily, the treasury pays itself back for the cost of gold purchases by depositing paper equivalents of the metal in the federal reserve system.

Doesn't "Cash in"

Now, it is paying out money for the gold bullion which it buys without "cashing in" on the gold's credit value.

The effect is to offset the influence on credit of gold imports from abroad.

Sleepy Mate Left Stranded as Wife Drives Off in Car

It wasn't cold enough to be physically uncomfortable, but the wind whistled eerily through the electric wires along the highway near New London one dark night last week as a lone figure stood in the center of the highway gazing bewilderedly at his disappearing car.

He attempted to think clearly but stood for many long seconds before his confused mind prompted him into action.

It all happened as an Appleton couple was returning to Appleton. The husband was getting sleepy and as he drove the car out of New London he asked his wife if she would drive while he took a snooze in the back seat.

Obliquely she slipped back of the wheel as he stepped out of the car. A second later she stepped on the gas and whizzed off, thinking her husband already courting slumber in the back seat. He stood on the highway looking at the fast disappearing car lights and then hoofed it to a nearby farm to call a brother living in Appleton to come for him.

HEALTH

This article deals with subjects which concern one's philosophy of life. It is my sincere wish to arouse more interest in the Science of Chiropractic and make it possible for more people to enjoy its wonderful benefits.

Do you have headaches? Are you troubled with constipation? Do you have pain, neuritis or lumbago? See me at once and ask about your health problems, so that you too may be made well.

You may ask the question how can Chiropractic do it. Well, do you realize that the Creator has wired the human that you live in, namely the nervous system, so it can function normally and be healthy?

You may ask then what causes people to be sick? From personal experience interference in your spine due to misplaced vertebrae pressing upon the nervous system, cutting down the human electrical energy between brain and body. You see the human life that moves and functions thru your body and keeps it alive lives in the skull or brain. Of course you know there is something that makes you and I tick, by that I mean "alive," it's the power that builds the body from a patent cell, and do you know that Chiropractic is the most efficient system in the world today to restore health to your sick body? You already have all the elements of health within you. Chiropractic simply comes to it and when there is interference in the spine with the life force that coordinates the human body. If this power built the body, which no intelligent person can deny, then why would it not keep it well thruout the span of life.

Chiropractic simply adjusts the cause and restores Nature's avenues of life, gives free expression to the force within, and health is the natural consequence. Of course you realize the spine is the human switchboard from which all nerves are distributed to all parts of the body. Chiropractic adds years to life and life to years. FUTURE JOBS FOR COMMISSIONERS

In the Forum tonight the Post-Crescent publishes a letter from the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin containing information the public would like to know. The Commission is to be commended for promulgating the rule that any of its employees will be discharged if they become financially interested in any of the railroads or other public carriers, utilities or other corporations, regulated by the Commission. This is foresight honed to desirable keenness. Also it represents the limits to which the Commission is authorized to go. But it does not represent, nor is it put forth as representing, desirable and material legislation which naturally must come from the law-making body. In the last 25 years we have seen several members of the Commission lay down their duties to take up attractive and lucrative positions with companies over whose affairs they have but shortly ruled in the name of the people. We haven't liked that procedure. It does not take a finicky person to see something in it quite distasteful. And this resentment is increased when it is learned that the salary of the new position was sometimes three times that of the old. If this practice is to continue how can we prevent the development of a feeling that securing the friendship of the corporations appearing before the Commission may result in snug berths for the rest of one's lifetime? And if it be said that such conclusion is rash and unwarranted, that the freedom to go from one position to another would not result in any neglect of the public interest, still people are suspicious mortals and the Commission or any other great tribunal entrusted with far-reaching powers must fashion its affairs somewhat after those of the best known woman in history who became such because she was Caesar's wife, and the consort of the magnificent Caesar could not even be subjected to a breath of suspicion. It has seemed to the Post-Crescent that an act of the legislature requiring members of the Commission upon appointment to enter into an agreement in writing with the state not to accept employment from any company, or any of its affiliates, that did business before the Commission for a reasonable time after the term of office, say two years, is not only fair and reasonable but devoid of fussiness and rather demanded by a consideration of the past.

The Post-Crescent has advanced this idea because it is mighty particular about the character and the reputation of the Public Service Commission. It wishes to maintain regulation of public service corporations instead of public ownership of utilities because it is sure that better results may be obtained for the people by that course. But regulation doesn't mean a tug at the ear or a slap on the wrist or a soft and complacent attitude toward wrong. It means justice irrespective of consequence or who is involved. And justice is only satisfactorily attainable through decisions that are affected only by the facts.

NOW IT'S CANADA'S TURN
Our neighbor to the north has been patient and considerate. It realized that while we were paying tribute to Mexico and permitting Mexican bandits to take American property with impunity its turn would come in due order. The Canadians are an intelligent and cool-headed people and knew that they could wait for the Roosevelt plums to fall on Canadian soil. Although Canada some four years ago was willing to pay half the expense of the improvements on the St. Lawrence where it marks the boundary between the two countries our new proposed treaty which the Administration has sent to the senate for approval provides that America will pay the whole bill. The bill is estimated at 400 millions. Judging from experience it may be safely placed therefore at a billion.

Why should we bother Canada about paying her share of such chicken feed as that. We're rich, we are. And besides, we're neighborly. We will make the rounds in due course. We cannot do everything in a day. Let other countries restrain their demands until tomorrow. And when we are through we will have nothing left and can begin all over again.

THE RED SPRUCES UP

The Communists in America by decree of their overlord, Mr. Browder, are taking a great fancy to democracy. They have washed their faces, scrubbed their necks and even invested in a manure to impress the public with their alleged sincerity and change both of aim and countenance, but they will fool mighty few people in America. The Reds in Spain assumed somewhat the same course and brought on the Spanish Civil war. Through all the din of battle, the uproar and the assassination, one thing stands out as clear as the blood on the Iberian peninsula and that is that just as soon as monarchy retreated from the scene and the Spanish people were taking democracy to their bosoms the Reds stepped in with knife and slander, with gun and bludgeon, and the scourge was loose. But the Spanish people were unlettered, inexperienced in the affairs of life or government because participation had been so long denied them, and they drank in the same hectic falsehoods that have been used on occasions elsewhere, and to their undoing. The Reds ran true to form in Spain. They repeated there the coup d'etat that brought Russia into their laps. At Moscow, as at Madrid, just as a nation was emerging from the darkness of autocracy and mightily pleased at the prospect of democracy the Reds opened Pandora's box and spread misery, death and disaster in order to wrench away from the people the precious right that had just become theirs. It was in January, 1918 that the Russian Constituent Assembly met. If one is interested he may read in the Encyclopedia Britannica what transpired: "The breach between the other political parties in Russia and the Bolsheviks had been widened by the suppression of the Constituent Assembly, which met in Moscow on Jan. 18, 1918. Its membership represented a large majority of Left and Right Social Revolutionaries, with a smaller proportion of 'Cadets' or bourgeois representatives. The Bolsheviks had only 40 per cent of the delegates. The election of a Right Social Revolutionary, Chernov, as president, convinced them that they had nothing to gain from the Assembly and it was closed by Red soldiers on Jan. 19." The Reds' record may be read the same everywhere. They are destroyers of democracy. They have sought friendship with democratic forms only for the purpose of getting closer where a knife may be more successfully wielded. But the Russians, like the Spaniards, knew too little of men, politics and slanders. In America the story will be markedly different.

THE STATE AND THE PEOPLE

A jewel of truth was once written in these words: "The coldest of all cold monsters is called the State." "The coldest of all lies crawls from its mouth; I, the State, am the people." If the reader will reflect upon the powerful meaning to be found in these two sentences and that 50 centuries of human experience has demonstrated their truth, he will then be fortified with the principle that will sustain him in contesting every attempt to make of the government a miraculous, mysterious person that has all the virtues and none of the vices of the people. Two things are responsible for the creation of totalitarian states. They are the same two that are responsible for every step taken to clip the liberty of the individual and enhance and glorify the power of the mob. Those two things consist of, first, political leaders who crave power and rightly conclude that the only way they may obtain it is to increase the power of the State, and second, people who are either so muddled in their concepts of their government or so pained by temporary distractions that they leap to embrace anything that sounds good. Fifty centuries of human experience have proven beyond any doubt to anyone who will read it that "the coldest of all cold monsters is called the State," and billions of tongues long since silenced in death would testify that "the coldest of all lies crawls from its mouth"—that is, the falsehood that has always misled the people, that "I, the State, am the people." For "I, the State," am never the people but the men who have grasped power and used it, when occasion permits, to their own aggrandizement and the perpetuation of their regime.

More than 200 pawnshops, located in the Shanghai area, were either destroyed or looted during hostilities last year, according to a survey just completed by the Shanghai Pawnbrokers' Guild. The total loss was estimated at more than (U. S.) $10,000,000. Krupp, the German steel and munitions firm, is bidding for the construction of a second railway track between Istanbul and Ankara. In addition to shortening the journey by four hours, the track would be of strategic value for rapid transportation of troops. After an absence of seven months, rickshaws are again permitted to operate in limited numbers in the Japanese controlled area in Shanghai. Chinese babies deserted by parents have little or no chance of survival these days, even when picked up and given proper attention. Undernourished mothers are given as the cause. Consumption of cheese in the United States has increased from two and a half pounds per capita 20 years ago to five pounds at the present time. The average daily wage of the Chinese ricksha coolie is (U. S.) 20 cents. His working day in most cities of China is eight hours. The Chengtu plain in Szechwan province, China, is irrigated by a system which has been in continuous operation for 2,000 years.

THE KING CAN DO NO WRONG

Jonah: This is a message to you and Jack pyne in answer to the low-down, dirty, cheap calumny of our distinguished president of which you have been guilty. And then they call us demagogues! Keep on abusing the liberties of the press as you are doing, and you and your disappointed crowd will plunge this country into dictatorship some day. Surely, Roosevelt has made mistakes. One of them was that he was the first president since Abraham Lincoln who dared to step on the feet of the greedy money man and who dared to sincerely favor the working class. Demagoguery? Historians will give the appraisal after 50 years. —LaFollette Progressive P. S. Help! Help! Am I all alone? This is certainly an invitation to an argument, but I'll keep it short. LaF. Progressive is strong on feeling but weak on history. Teddy Roosevelt had no end of fun chasing the "money man," and busting the trusts. At the same time, the greatest amount of anti-trust action came — now take it easy — under the administration of that old guard of the old guard, William Howard Taft. (The defunct NRA was a blessing to the trusts.) Baiting the rich man is always good political spellbinding, but it doesn't mean a darned thing. The wealthy vote is almost non-existent in comparison to the rest of us, and, as Bruce Barton pointed out recently, the influence exerted by the "moneyed classes" in determining elections is nil. As far as events have worked out up to now, FDR has done little damage to the "money man" as an individual (after all, FDR is one of that group) despite heavy taxes in the higher income brackets. His biggest contribution to labor has been to advance the fortunes of John Lewis. He has done little for the bulk of the population except push policies that have made life just that much harder to live. The real point at issue is not the obvious failure of the New Deal nor the futility of Roosevelt policies. The really amazing thing is the Roosevelt voice, the Roosevelt smile, the Roosevelt personality and the Roosevelt buck-passing — all of which have combined to maintain his personal popularity in the face of a depression whose counterpart less than six years ago led the nation to bounce a president who lacked FDR's theatrical qualities. If LaF. Progressive loves FDR as an individual, that is his privilege. At the same time, it must be remembered that when a man becomes a president, he ceases to be a private citizen. He is the fair target of both praise and blame — not as an individual, but as a president. There is a sharp difference. jonah-the-coroner

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO
Monday, June 4, 1913
With Oshlosh and Milwaukee delegations campaigning to secure the 1928 convention, the 1928 conference of Lions clubs of Wisconsin got underway here that morning with about 200 delegates registered at the Conway hotel, convention headquarters. Officials expected at least 600 visitors by evening. Final details concerning the location, grade and size of the new gymnasium at Lawrence college were determined at a meeting of the building committee of the college board of trustees with architects, engineers and L. M. Alexander, donor of the building here Saturday. Officers of the Elks club here journeyed to Beaver Dam Sunday afternoon, assisting in opening a new club there. Local Elks who made the trip were Major C. A. Green, James Balch, David Smith, Julius P. Frank, Daniel P. Steinberg, W. C. Jacobson, Sarto S. Balliet, Guy Roman and T. J. Long. 25 YEARS AGO
Monday, June 9, 1913
The commencement number of the Clarion issued by students of Appleton High school was dedicated to Orville Harris, engineer at the high school. Harry Schram, a young farmer residing near Forest Junction, had his face severely burned with powder the previous day while scattering powder about a corn field used to scare crows. A lighted match fell into the bucket he was carrying causing an explosion. Elaborate preparations were being made for the dedication of the new $20,000 St. John's Evangelical church at Black Creek, which was nearing completion. The ceremonies were scheduled for Sunday, June 21.

THE VENTRILOQUIST IS NOT SAYING A WORD

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author
J. SPRATT
Why, oh why, asks many a plump or skinny one, as the case may be, why is it that one person can eat as much as he likes and everything he likes and yet never takes on excess weight, while another literally piles it on in spite of constant care to avoid fattening things and forever going half starved? The conventional answer to this question has generally been a vague "illusion to differences of constitution. I say nothing about that, for the reason that we know so little about it, but I believe the newer knowledge of nutrition warrants a more rational explanation of the tendency complained of. First, where precisely does a state of normal nutrition end and obesity begin? How many excess pounds or inches may an individual carry without being regarded as ill of obesity? Gosh, I'd rather not answer that. Even men who weigh or measure half as much again as they should are a bit resentful if you imply they are ailing with obesity, and women, thank goodness, simply won't tolerate such candor. They may be a bit overweight, too stout, too plump, have a "high waist" or a "high diaphragm," but they never suffer from obesity until they can find nothing ready-made to wear. Nevertheless obesity begins somewhere, even if the dividing line between health and obesity is a wide or movable one. For that matter, who can say when arteriosclerosis begins? Surely the disease has been developing for a considerable time before we can demonstrate loss of elasticity in the arteries. It is my belief that individuals who eat what they like and as much as they like yet do not put on superfluous flesh happen to be well nourished, whereas those who decline in vitality and vigor and accumulate excessive flesh notwithstanding "dieting" and constant efforts or at least intentions to consume less food happen to be poorly nourished. Chiefly the nutritional efficiency concerned is insufficient intake of minerals and insufficient intake of vitamins. The minerals most commonly lacking in the diet are calcium and phosphorus; the vitamins most commonly lacking are vitamins B, D and G. A great many persons who are overweight and inclined to accumulate superfluous flesh and who are subject to spells or periods of inordinate craving for sweets or carbohydrate food of one kind or another—sometimes it is potatoes, sometimes candy, sometimes bread or a cereal product—have observed that after a reasonable period of supplementing their ordinary diet with daily rations of minerals and the vitamins mentioned, they began to be satisfied with less food than they formerly ate. They acquire a new strength—the strength to push back from the table before the dessert is served, for example. In short, they feel reasonably comfortable and content after a fair meal, without the excess carbohydrate. I do not offer this as the explanation for all leanness and fatness. It is merely a practical observation made by many stout persons who have reduced successfully, and I believe it is a rational one. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Specialist Obsession
My problem is how to obtain the services of a specialist without accepting charity or paying a small fortune. In this instance I ask you to recommend a cardiologist (Mrs. J. S. S.). Answer—I suppose you mean a specialist who can make and interpret electro-cardiographs? I can't conceive what any one would want such a specialist for, at any price, and friends. Women born on this date are generally fortunate in their selection of a husband. Blessed with homemaking instincts, after some few trials, a period of adjustment usually results in harmonious and prosperous conditions. The child born on June 7 is of an inherent frank nature, a good disposition, and a born optimist. The prospects of a bright future gives every assurance that this youngster has everything to live for, and nothing to fear. If a man and June 7 is your natal day, a tolerant attitude toward other people's ideas, loyalty to your friends and self-discipline will help you make a big success. As a clergyman, politician, promoter, contractor, author, salesman, manufacturer, printer or inventor you may find yourself one of Fortune's favorite sons. Some time ago you told about a remarkable remedy for myasthenia. I lost the clipping, and my sister has myasthenia now. (Mrs. C. L. P.) Answer—the remedy is prostigmin, and only a physician can safely administer it. Myasthenia is pathological muscular weakness, characteristic expression exaggeration of the Sauri Pitts mask. After a dose of prostigmin the patient can smile for a while. (Copyright 1938)

Your Birthday

"GEMINI"
If June 7 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 9:15 to 11:15 a. m., from 1:15 to 3:15 p. m., and from 8:15 to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:15 to 9:15 a. m., from 6:15 to 8:15 p. m., and from 10:15 p. m. until midnight. You will not be able to do satisfactory work amid any kind of confusion this day. Disorderly rooms and desks are likely to be distracting to mental workers. The ignoring of moral obligations, commissions and responsibilities will be followed by a unusual amount of mental stress and strain. Let nothing tempt you to neglect your duties, if you wish to avoid paying a heavy penalty. Recollections of former days, may help make times pass pleasantly. Relatives and friends are apt to be in reminiscent moods. Some of their memories are likely to be amusing, as well as embarrassing, so be careful about encouraging them to go into details regarding any forgotten incident of your past. There might be a number of mysterious happenings this day, that will keep you busy trying to solve them. However, a clue can be found to each and everyone of them. Married and engaged couples, as well as those upon whom Cupid has cast his magic spell, must not be slow in expressing their appreciation for any favors this day. If a woman and June 7 is your birthday, you ought to be exceptionally able to make deductions particularly regarding people's characters. You should possess a magnetic personality, a quick tongue, and a keen sense of humor. You are likely to love or dislike with equal intensity. As an educator, public stenographer, milliner, interior decorator, actress, author or sales agent you may make a success that will be very gratifying to both yourself

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER
Washington — In politics there is more than one way to butter a potato and thus it is that friends of Representative Jerry O'Connell of Montana believe he has received the White House nod to run against Senator Wheeler in 1940. It came about this way. One of the choice pieces of federal spending in the west is Fort Peck reservoir on the Missouri river in Montana called by scoffers the "costliest duck pond in the world." New towns have been built up around it, an agricultural development is in prospect and besides that it helps open the Missouri to navigation. Early in 1937 O'Connell introduced a bill to authorize spending $6,000,000 to install power works at the dam. Part of the power would be used to pump irrigation water to tracts now desert. The bill made only random progress. The Way Of A Bill
Some weeks later Senator Wheeler introduced a similar bill in the Senate and it made more rapid progress. It passed the Senate and Wheeler, who has campaigned long and often and is rarely caught with his hands in his pockets, promptly sent telegrams out to Montana to announce his success in getting the bill through the Senate. These things may sound casual to the layman but to the politician such an opportunity is like a summer rain on his crop of votes. The bill went over to the House and O'Connell got busy. By a legislative maneuver as simple as cracking peanuts he had the Wheeler bill trimmed down until nothing much was left but the page numbers. O'Connell's own bill then was substituted for it, revised to suit the administration and the War Department, the latter being in charge of the reservoir building. In that form it passed but Wheeler let no grass grow under his typewriter before sending out telegrams to Montana reporting that the bill had passed the House. Again when the President signed the bill Senator Wheeler sent out telegrams and Montana was glad to know that $6,000,000 was a step nearer. Remember 'Dear Alben'? But Representative O'Connell has been more popular with the administration than Senator Wheeler in late times, particularly since Wheeler led the fight against the court bill. There was a time in 1936 when O'Connell was mentioned as a candidate for the senatorial job of Senator Murray but Murray also has his friends there, and back here, and O'Connell contented himself with another term in the House, waiting for a crack at Wheeler in 1940. departments employing such persons have jurisdiction. ## Play Is Fundamental To Growth of Children

BY ANGELO PATRI

Play is fundamental to a child's growth. People often smile at his play. They think it's a trifling matter. That is a mistake. A child's play is serious business. It is the natural activity of the world in which he lives, and it expresses his feeling toward that world. It is an instinctive way of gathering experiences. Our part in the scheme is to guide and direct that instinct so that the child gets the best of values out of it.

A baby's first plaything is his own body. First he finds his hands. He studies his fingers and amuses himself with them for minutes at a time. Then he discovers his big toe and tries to find out what it is good for, and puts it into his mouth. That mouth is a bureau of information. The baby refers everything to it.

After a while he begins to reach for things. He can grasp a rattle and shake it. That's the time a rattle should be tied to his crib so he can get it whenever he feels he wants it. By and by other things can be tied to his crib for his amusement. A ball, a rubber animal, a pretty-sounding bell. Tie them so that when he tosses them overboard they will not fall to the floor. That keeps them cleaner and saves mother's back and mother's time.

Toys for infants ought to be washable. The paint should not come off. They should be safe for, sooner or later, they all find themselves popped into the baby's mouth. I would keep woolly animals out of the baby's reach. They are likely to get dirty and stay that way. We have to be particular about the cleanliness of everything the baby handles.

The little ones in their cribs like to stretch their legs and kick a lot. To make the kicking and the stretching effective the child needs resistance. So fasten a basket ball, any ball well blown up answers the purpose, to the foot of his crib and let him kick and push against it.

Then, too, the baby likes to pound things, to bang them hard. That's as it should be. He needs to make a noise. A little wooden mallet and a block on which to beat it, a tin pan and a spoon, will give him endless delight. Select the sort that your nerves can stand best and let him bang his way to sturdy growth.

It is important to teach the baby to play by himself. Arrange the play time; put a mat on the floor in a protected corner; set the child on it, and give him a simple toy. Show him how to use it and then leave him to himself and his job; and for the next fifteen minutes or so don't

Failure to Return Lead Confusing

BY ELY CULBERTSON

Before a defender can intelligently follow the rule to "lead up to weakness," he must have a clear idea of just what constitutes "weakness." Actually, in its bridge sense, the word is not as easy to define as is generally imagined.

West did not like the idea of opening a club after the suit had been bid on his left and chose, instead, to lead the spade jack. Declarer won in his own hand and led the low heart to dummy's king. East won and returned the three of clubs, thus succeeding remarkably in making two errors in one play. First, he should not have led a club at all. With five spades in his hand, one sure heart entry, and a reasonable chance of a diamond entry, East should have concentrated on the suit his partner had providentially opened. Dummy's club suit, although headed by only the jack, was not really "weakness," under the circumstances. East himself had only two low clubs. What club combination could West have that would make a club lead desirable? Even if he had as good as the A Q x x x, dummy still would have two club stoppers, and surely it was a bit thick to hope for a better club holding in West's hand. Thus, while under certain circumstances dummy's club suit might be considered weakness and strongly invited attack, the fact that East could offer no cooperation in this attack should have deterred him from breaking the suit. But, not only did East return the wrong suit, he also confused West fatally by leading the lower card of his doubleton. We shall see what effect this had.

Declarer won the club return with the ace and led a low diamond toward the king. West won had entirely the wrong conception of the hand. It looked to him as though declarer had several heart tricks and possibly three spade tricks (two were in sight). I am not condoning West's decision to put up the diamond ace and return a low club, but the fact remains that East's line of defense had made matters obscure. After West put up the diamond ace, the defenders did not do so well. Declarer won the club return and led a diamond to the king, dropping East's queen. A heart then was led from dummy. East put up the queen and returned a low club. Declarer, after much thought, finessed against the ten spot and, when his nine held, cashed the jack, discarding a club from dummy. Two spade tricks then put West into a horrible squeeze. He could not keep his guarded diamond nine and also keep the club queen. Whichever suit he chose to discard, declarer had the rest of the tricks.

As the child grows older this period of playing by himself is lengthened. The number and the complexity of his playthings are increased, but he should never have more than two or three toys at a time. Do this, and pretty soon the baby will be able to play by himself for a couple of hours a day and like it.

The point I would leave with you is this: A child's play is serious business. It should be promoted, encouraged and guided. It should be respected. The way a child plays has a great deal to do with the way he works when he takes his place in the world of grown-ups.

Cottontails

Some kinds of rabbits are able to open their eyes as they are born, but that isn't true of cottontails. The cottontail keeps his eyes shut about 10 days, then opens them and begins to look at the world.

A new-born cottontail is not much bigger than a man's thumb. Often it weighs less than an ounce.

Millions of cottontails are shot every year by hunters, and millions of others die from other causes, but so many are born that the race lives on.

Old Gardener Says:
Sweet peas are plants which need cool weather for best results. It is difficult to keep them flowering well when summer is well advanced. There should be a good crop this month, however, at least in sections where the sweet peas flourish. If proper care is given the plants, this means keeping the roots cool not only by applying water freely but by mulching as well. A mulch of peat moss is very satisfactory but even grass clippings will serve a useful purpose. It is important, also, to pick the flowers as fast as they appear. If these flowers are allowed to go to seed, blooming will soon cease. Spraying with nicotine will help to keep the plant free away. Some garden makers get the same results by weaving tobacco stems at frequent intervals into the foliage.

Custom Dictates the Time For Cutting Wedding Cake

BY JOAN DURHAM

The ceremony of cutting the cake is a time-honored part of wedding festivities.

When should the ceremony start? If the wedding is followed by a sit-down breakfast, says John Shattuck, executive of a restaurant organization noted for its wedding cakes, the bride cuts the cake at dessert. If the affair is a reception she cuts it after she has greeted the guests.

A Bow On The Handle
The bride usually makes only one cut. If the cake has two or three tiers and is decorated, she removes the decorations and cuts one piece of the top tier. The pieces of cake should be about half an inch thick. A sharp, thin-bladed knife may be used in cutting. Its handle may be decorated with a white satin bow.

The bride shares the first slice with the bridegroom, then a waiter or a family friend cuts the rest of the cake or each guest may cut his or her own portion.

Favors are often placed in wedding cakes, especially in those to be served to the bridal party at a dinner the night before the wedding. (Sometimes, too, the favors are placed throughout the cake to be served after the wedding.)

Favors And Their Meaning
Usually a special figure in the icing decoration indicates which side of the cake contains favors for the bride's attendants and which holds those for the bridegroom's. Then members of the bridal party and parents of the couple usually get the first pieces. (If the cake is served to the bridal party only and some is left over the bride's mother sometimes puts the rest in an airtight box and saves it for her daughter to open on an anniversary. Only fruit cakes may be stored in this manner, however.)

As many as a dozen favors may be placed in the cake—six for the bride's and six for the bridegroom's attendants.

Traditional for the bridesmaids' favors and their significance are: Wishbone, luckiest, ring, first to be married; anchor, hope; flur-de-lis, a flowery life; dime, riches; horse with rider, sport; thimble, old maid.

On the bridegroom's side are: Dice or shamble, lucky chance in life; heart, love; horseshoe, good news; dime, riches; bulldog head, hang on; button, bachelor; barrister's head, knowledge.

AGELESS ELEGANCE

Such being the case, it is virtually certain that the average girl is going to have to earn her living before marriage, and often than not follow some gainful occupation after marriage in order to eke out her husband's inadequate earnings. So it behooves her to get more serious thought to choosing her career and preparing herself for it than she has done heretofore when she cherished the idea that it didn't make much difference what she did, or how she did it, because she was only going to work until she could find a man to work for her.

Under the delusion that any job was merely a temporary bridge between the schoolroom and the altar, girls have given no serious consideration whatever to choosing their lifework, or their fitness for what they were undertaking to do. They went into this or that because Mamie or Sadie was doing it, or because they thought it romantic or glamorous, and this has given us the army of stenographers who can't spell and have no vocabulary, the saleswomen without personal integrity or taste, the school teachers who have no faculty for imparting knowledge or inspiring a love of culture in the youthful breast.

And because they have believed they wouldn't have to typewrite, or sell goods, or try to hammer learning into thick little skulls for long, most girls never wasted any time and energy in even attempting to do good work or make themselves experts in their line. They never even seemed to grasp the fact that there is any connection between reliable work and the size of a pay envelope.

It is to these myriads of girls who are about to face the problem of supporting themselves that I am speaking today, and I would like to say to them with all the earnestness which I can command first of all that they are only going to have to work for a few days or months until some Fairy Prince will come riding along and bear them off to his palace in Palm Beach or his penthouse on Park Avenue, and they will have nothing to do the remainder of their lives but spend money instead of earning it. Maybe he will come, but the odds are a million to one against it. So girl yourself, girls, for the long struggle that leads to self-earned independence.

A WEDDING DETAIL
Dear Mrs. Post: Our family is in deep mourning for my father who died two months ago, but I would like to go ahead immediately with my plans, of long standing, to be married in June. Mother and the other members of my family, as well as father's sisters and brother, feel as I do that it would be useless to postpone the wedding. To do this would not lessen our sorrow and it would mean that I could not go with my husband-to-be on a business trip abroad, which he can't put off and which he had hoped to be able to turn into our wedding trip as well. Mother, however, feels that the invitations should be engraved on black-bordered paper whereas I feel that combining such a display of the family's grief with my wedding would be shockingly lacking in taste. Mother believes, furthermore, that the announcements should also be engraved on this same black-bordered paper. Will you help us with this most upsetting detail. All of us have been under such an emotional strain that we have reached the point where, I believe, we can't see anything clearly through the haze of our own unhappiness. The bridegroom may have two ushers, or for that matter, he could have four although there would be very little use for their actual services; and you can of course invite these same people to your house for a very simple collation afterwards. The question of whether you may choose a black border on the announcements that would be sent out generally, as they would for every other wedding, is a question which you alone can decide. A very narrow black border on these announcements, while not acceptable, is a question which you alone can decide.

Average Girl Earns Her Living Before Marriage

Tens of thousands of girls are being graduated now from our high schools and colleges, and as they stand bewildered at the crossroads of life they are asking themselves: Where do we go from here?

In what we call the good old times a woman did not have to worry over what occupation she would follow. It was settled for her at birth when the doctor said: "It's a fine girl, ma'am." Father would support her while she was growing up. Then she would marry and be a wife, a mother, a housekeeper and fill that station in life to which it had pleased God to call her. And that was that.

But nowadays few fathers can afford the luxury of a parasitic daughter, and as soon as Mary Jane is out of school Papa expects her to rustle up a job and help him take care of the remainder of the family. Nor can any girl look forward with any degree of certainty to getting married; or, if she does, and butter and finger waves.

Such being the case, it is virtually certain that the average girl is going to have to earn her living before marriage, and often than not follow some gainful occupation after marriage in order to eke out her husband's inadequate earnings. So it behooves her to get more serious thought to choosing her career and preparing herself for it than she has done heretofore when she cherished the idea that it didn't make much difference what she did, or how she did it, because she was only going to work until she could find a man to work for her.

Beauty Kit Is Needed In Summer

Whether you are going on a honeymoon abroad for the entire summer, whether you are taking your first weekend jaunt to a friend's house, as a graduation gift, or going by trailer across the country, you'll need at least one traveling companion: a beauty kit.

And whether you are vacationing at mountain resort or seashore, or staying at home or remaining at your desk for eight out of the ten weeks, it is still a wise investment to have a beauty kit.

If you can afford to splurge, then you can treat yourself to an elaborate traveling case, with hinged trays for your hairbrush and comb, room for nightgown or pajamas, toothbrush and mouthwash to say nothing of all the essential face creams and notions, cosmetics and ample mirror which flips back at just the right angle to give you a good view of yourself.

Compact Kit
If your trip is to be a short one or if you have to travel very light (by plane, particularly) you'll want a compact beauty kit with miniature sizes of your favorite creams and things. If you are a business woman a similar kit ought to have a prominent place in your desk. It can be small and compact enough and the little jars and bottles can be refilled from larger sizes you keep at home and use faithfully, I hope.

Essentials
Let's build up from essentials. First—a good cleansing cream and a skin lotion. Then, of course, you'll want cleansing tissues, cotton (preferably ready-cut into squares). You'll want your makeup foundation and your favorite make-up—a complete set; an emory board and orange stick, a hand lotion, a comb, a compact sewing kit for minor repairs.

I have a bulletin called "Beauty for the Traveler" which may interest you. Send self-addressed, stamped (3-cent envelope for it. Write to me in care of this paper.

My complete booklet Care of the Hair (Booklet 203) is yours for ten cents. It covers the subject thoroughly. Send for it, giving your name and full address to The Bell Library, care of this newspaper, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y. (Copyright, 1938)

Then I would implore them to study their own aptitudes and find out what they are best fitted for. Most failures are the result of round pegs getting into square holes. Work is only work when we are doing something that boras us and that we do badly. The work we love is the greatest joy and thrill and excitement that the world can give us.

I would call their attention to the practical, homely, everyday occupations, and especially to those that belong peculiarly to their sex and for which they have an inherent talent. The women who succeed best are those who follow womanly pursuits, such as dressmaking, millinery, nursing, hotelkeeping, secretaries and saleswomen. Don't overlook these. They are your best bet in choosing an occupation.

I get thousands of letters from girls who want to be cinema stars, poets, actresses, aviators, but I have never had a single letter from a girl who wanted to be a good cook. And finally, daughters, remember that you will have to work just as hard doing sloppy work that is ill paid as you will for good work that commands a fat pay envelope. So put your hearts and your backs into your job. It is the only way to succeed.

(Copyright, 1938)

ed by the conventional precepts of etiquette, has nevertheless, in such a case as yours, a very real object. This evidence of mourning would make it plain to all of those receiving the announcement why the wedding could not have been a big one to which they might otherwise have been invited. The note of invitation you write would also be written on black-bordered paper, because that is the paper you are now using. They should be written in the second person and sent only to those whom you are unable to invite verbally.

Pour a bit of ginger ale over fruit cocktails just before serving time.

Neenah Graduates Wear Caps, Gowns At Baccalaureate

Regard Talents as Sacred Trust, Rev. Samuel Roth Tells Seniors

Neenah — A precedent was established at Neenah high school Sunday night when the graduating class appeared in caps and gowns at baccalaureate service in the auditorium. For the first time in the history of the school, the graduates are wearing the traditional garb.

Scoring "misdirected education which develops the mind and neglects the heart," the Rev. Samuel Roth, pastor of St. Paul's English Lutheran church, in his baccalaureate sermon on "Strength in Youth," told the graduates to regard their talents as sacred trust, properly harnessing them so they are obedient to perform the right things in life.

The graduates will receive their diplomas at the commencement program Wednesday night when Dean J. Clark Graham of Ripon college will be the principal speaker. Three awards also will be distributed. The seniors will hold their banquet at 6:30 this evening at the Valley Inn. A dance sponsored by the parents of the graduates will be given in the high school gymnasium after the commencement exercises Wednesday night.

His Hero-Worship

The Rev. Mr. Roth disparaged the "hero-worship" of the material, sordid, browbeating physical giant which he said, "I'm sorry to say plays a good part of education today." America is working back to the Roman period with its crowning of strong, athletic heroes and beauty queens. "We look upon the physical giant as being the man, but in the eyes of God, he is not."

He urged the graduates to keep their bodies strong and clean, not for the fleeing crowns men place upon the heads of other men, but as the temple for the Holy Ghost.

As the body is kept in condition for the right purpose, it is important that your mental process be directed in the proper channels, the minister told the graduates; otherwise, he added, it will be a menace. We have mental giants as well as physical giants. Minds can be developed to a tremendous degree, and "as men think kingdoms rise, wars are declared and waged and settle, and the world is changed overnight."

Because we fail to educate our youth in the heart as well as the mind, the world is run with criminals," he said, pointing out that there is "no place for a spiritual ignoramus."

"Morning of Life"

The Rev. Mr. Roth told the graduates they are beginning "the morning of their life," and he called the commencement "a dawning of a new morning." "Think not of the drudgery behind you," he said, "but be thankful for the hours before you in which to complete, after long years of service, the which you are to begin tonight, if it is God's will."

The Rev. W. R. Courtenay, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, gave invocation and benediction. For the procession, the high school orchestra, under the direction of Lester Loehrke, played "Pomp and Circumstance." Following the invocation, the high school chorus, also under Mr. Loehrke's direction, sang "Meditation."

The Rev. Mr. Courtenay then read from the scriptures and the audience sang the hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy." The chorus sang "Send Forth Thy Light," and the orchestra played "March Militaire" for the recessional.

Boy Scouts Prepare for Contests on Neenah Camporee Program June 18-20

Menasha — Boy scout troops throughout the valley council are starting preparations for the eight events in the camporee, to be held at Riverside park, Neenah, on June 17, 18 and 19, which will determine the standard patrol and camp troop awards.

"The more events the patrol enters, the better the chances for success. The competing patrols do not have to indicate which events they will enter until they arrive at the camporee," according to Walter Dixon, valley council executive.

The first test is campcraft in which the entire troop and each patrol will participate. The scouts must demonstrate their knowledge of how to make a camp, how to equip and how to police a site. The equipment necessary includes natural shelters or tentage, cooking and eating utensils, blanket and ground cloths, tools and patrol flags. The grading for the contest will be done on camp pitching, beds, care and condition of tools, care and condition of duffel, care and condition of mess equipment, condition of camp-kitchen and site policed during and after encampment.

Work Over Open Fires

The second contest will be cookcraft and each patrol will have two scouts designated as cooks. The cooks must do their work over open fires. Judging will be based on food storage, cleanliness, appetizing appearance, not burned, palatability, minimum of waste and will apply to the entire patrol. Thorough patrol organization, cultivation of patrol spirit and living of the scout oath and law will be part of the preparation. The grading, which will go on during the encampment, will be on a basis of discipline, efficiency of the leaders, after taps behavior, attendance at events and patrol organization.

Two Scouts Will Be Selected

Two scouts will be selected by each patrol for the knot contest, the fourth event. The scouts will have to know all of the knots mentioned in scout test requirements, their use and will also have to be able to untie them. Speed will be one of the essentials required.

Fire by Friction

The fifth contest will be fire by friction. One scout will represent the patrol and will have to kindle a flame by the "rubbing sticks" method. The patrol will have to furnish its own equipment. Speed again will be the deciding point for the winner.

Water boiling will be the sixth contest with two scouts comprising each patrol team. The scouts must know how to lay fire, suspend or prop the container and bring the water to a boil so that the water bubbles over the top of the container. Speed will determine the winner.

The troop exhibit, the seventh contest, will be counted towards the troop award only. A special award will be made for the three best exhibits of handicraft. Judges will base their decisions on quality of workmanship, method of display and variety.

The final contest will be in woodcraft, also to count for the troop rating. The three best displays within the troop camp area will be decided by the judges based on the quality of workmanship and design and variety of displays. The displays may include such things as large towers, bridges, log huts, brush lean-to's, camp beds and camp equipment.

BOOK REVIEW Daniel Defoe Is Fascinating Character in New Biography

By Jean Wiley Thickens

"DANIEL DEFOE" by James Sutherland. To twentieth century readers the name of Daniel Defoe is synonymous with "Robinson Crusoe." It is an amusing commentary on the period in which Defoe lived however, that it was not until he was 60 years old, haunted by creditors, broken in health and deserted by former political allies, that in desperation he turned his attention to the writing of adventure fiction. The leading lights of the seventeenth century scornfully declared that his appeal as a writer of fiction would be only to "small shopkeepers, artisans, servant wenches, and common soldiers" and they despised him accordingly. Three centuries later few persons remember that he was first a famous writer of political pamphlets which played a great part in directing the governmental policies of King William during and after the wars with France.

During these years as a government subsidized pamphleteer he lived a wretched, hand-to-mouth existence, grateful for small, irregular cash handouts from the higher-ups in the government who blandly pretended to be unaware that he was playing stooge for them, directing the propaganda of the county and various reviews and pamphlets for through his political writings. He recognized him socially though he was harassed constantly with debt and twice was incarcerated in a debtor's prison. On the other hand, when he emerged the second time from prison and in desperation began to earn honest money regularly from his sale of fiction, former associates cut him dead on the streets and in the coffee houses, feeling convinced that he had descended several rungs on the social ladder when he resorted to writing fiction. Essays, satire, history, religious controversy, pamphlets, and journalism were all worth methods of expression but fiction "could never appeal to any but the lower classes."

Loyal to Friends The character of Defoe as presented by his biographer James Sutherland, is a fascinating one. Inconsistent, energetic, ambitious, versatile, not too scrupulous in money matters (he once cheated his mother-in-law out of several hundred dollars, not knowing that she planned to bequeath this money to him and his wife) he was yet loyal to friends and generous to his enemies.

He was a Dissenter in religious matters, far advanced in his ideas for educating women (before his time a large share of them were illiterate) he also advocated building good roads, "made of gravel and gravel," he fought in the various reviews and pamphlets for humane insane asylums, poor houses where the inmates were not beaten and starved, and advocated "cleaning up the manners and morals of the aristocracy, before attempting to punish the lower classes for the same vices." He was considerable of a snob, claiming (non-existent) aristocratic ancestors, though this father was only a tallow chandler and later a butcher.

It is not difficult to analyze the reasons for the instant success of "Robinson Crusoe," his first adventure novel, which appeared in 1719. The character of Crusoe appealed to readers because of his isolation on the island for 28 years, his homely virtues, his sportsmanship (which appeals strongly to the British) his refusal to admit defeat, and his moral and religious renaissance. He gave his readers facts, what things cost (in effort and sacrifice) how he made substitutes work, etc. In his subsequent novels of pirates, shipwreck, deserted islands, and buried treasure, he was utilizing his life-long study of geography, of the voyages and discoveries of his contemporaries, and their hair-breadth escapes. He personally interviewed Alexander Selkirk, a sailor, some of whose adventures on a desert isle formed the nucleus for the fictional adventures of Crusoe.

Defoe is an exceptionally interesting subject for the biographer. "Search for all men," says the author, "he can have had the fewest regrets for deeds undone time wasted, or chances thrown away. Buying and selling, dealing in hosiery, wine and oysters (and enjoying a little affair of the heart with the oyster wench in passing) making bricks and tiles in his factory, riding all day across the counties of England, writing the reviews by his own fire-side or in hired lodgings, drafting government reports, standing in the docks to receive sentence from her majesty Queen Anne, he had not spent many idle moments since he was a schoolboy. There have been few men in any generation so vitally alive for three-score-years-and-ten as Daniel Defoe."

HOLLYWOOD LIGHTS CAMERA HAPPENINGS

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—Technical note on these changing times: white now photographs white instead of a glare.

Most of Sonja Heine's skating costumes are pure white, and she is being photographed without the aid of colored filters or colored lights. In the Bobby Breen skating picture, "Breaking the Ice," Bobby, little Irene Dare and Charles Ruggles all will wear white before the cameras.

Not long ago to get white on the screen blue or pink had to be used. Actors dined on blue tablecloths, wore blue dress-shirts. If they wore white the camera caught blurs, halos, halation.

It's new film that does it—a few more grains of silver in the coating reduces the radiation of light from white and permits it to be photographed.

Injuries And Careers Talking to Charlotte Wynters (Professor Beware, "Sinners in Paradise," etc.) is a reminder of the number of people physical injury has removed from the screen.

Miss Wynters is back again, after being pursued by a jinx. She had done several films after leaving the stage, but one day she fell off a bicycle and fractured her ankle. That healed, she was awakened one night by the telephone, ran in her bare feet to answer it, picked up a splinter. Infection set in and she was on crutches a year.

There was Anna Q. Nilsson, who fell from a horse and suffered five years, her starring career ended. There was Evelyn Knapp, whose back was broken in a fall just when she was making progress as a leading lady. Recovered now, Evelyn is still on the screen but still has trouble convincing producers she can work. (She has done several westerns, which ought to prove something.) And Mae Clarke—dogged by illness so long that producers doubted she could finish a picture if they gave it to her. She has married now, and left pictures.

It's The Strain, Too And the most tragic case of all—Edwina Booth, an extra girl who got her big chance in "Trader Horn," and came back with a fever contracted on the African location, never to wake again.

Miss Booth would seem to be the only one whose injury actually sprang from picture-making. And yet no one knows how many illnesses arise from the strain of the picture life—especially with those people who, in the sudden glow of popularity, are worked in one picture after another until, almost ready to drop, they take a vacation.

Hollywood is a strain any way they take it. On top, it keeps them busy worrying how to stay there. Going up, it makes them worry how to get higher. Slipping—there's where the real strain comes in. And that's where some of them take to drink to ease the pain.

Joe Penner's duck—this on advice from the RKO camp—is all washed up. But "I'm from the City" has a western background and a Penner pal (animal) was essential. Director Ben Holmes, despairing of procuring a giant panda, and Penner considered in turn a goat, a crocodile, and a pig. A pig it is—probably because Bob Burns' rise to fame was not retarded by Wofford, the porky of "Waikiki Wedding."

It's a small-world note: Alex C. Demar, owner of a Grand Rapids night spot, met Joan Blondell on the "There's Always a Woman" set, asked for her autograph. Joan, posing her pen, remarked, "I used to value your autograph once—on a check. I worked in your floor shows—remember?" He didn't.

Miss Ethel Holmbeck, 627 Higgins avenue, will entertain at a kitchen shower for Miss Marjorie Mary and a group of Miss Marjorie's friends at Oshkosh are planning a pre-nuptial event for her.

Mrs. Edwin Trivier, 328 N. Commercial street, will entertain for Miss Marjorie and her fiancé, Mr. Eberlein, at a dinner party Saturday, June 18.

Lawrence Tells Of Dream About National Scene

Seems to be Witnessing Miracle—Wakes Up in World of Unmorality

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Not long ago, President Roosevelt revealed that he had had a dream of an impending airplane disaster, and hence the next day he ordered that a new airport be built in Washington.

Dreaming of impending disasters of other kinds is unhappy the everyday experience of many people who view with deep concern the economic trend in America. Perhaps, therefore, the dream of a Washington correspondent will not seem inappropriate, especially since it touches so closely the events and persons in the national scene of today. And so the dream:

Seated on a dais was a white-haired father, the features of his face faded and dimmed at times by the movement of fleecy mists that separated him from the millions of human beings who, ill-clad and ill-nourished, stood silently as their spokesmen, his clothes tattered, his face unshaven, his eyes blinking before the strong light that shone upon the scene, said:

"I have tried to help these people. I have twice been elected president of the United States by them and by their more fortunate brethren. I have instituted reforms. I have condemned greed and selfishness. I have ordered legislatures and courts to do my bidding. My purpose has been benevolent. I have been criticized severely and have in some quarters become hated. It is true I have hated, too. I have refused to listen to some who have approached me because I thought them selfish—I have distrusted them. It is true also I have spent billions of dollars and I am about to spend billions more. But somehow I do not feel that we are finding our way out of the wilderness. What can we, oh, white-haired father, do?"

There was a full minute of silence. No answer came from the dais. Suddenly from the right side of the first spokesman, arose a tall man, well-clothed, his face a tense study of energy and eagerness. He said:

"We have found in America but one real way to create jobs—inventive genius, alert management, and fair wages for the investment of dollars. We want to make work for all these people, but the first spokesman will not listen. Time is being lost as goods are not being produced. We are getting nowhere fast."

Again a silence, and a third spokesman arose from the left. He is brawny, muscular, his face is covered with blood. He speaks haltingly, as with difficulty he tries to suppress the emotion of his appeal:

Talks For Labor

"We, too, want to see production uninterrupted. But our second spokesman here forgets too often that masses of men cannot be treated like faces of steel—moulded to suit his will. We are helpless as individuals, so we try to act together. When we do so, our leaders sometimes are beaten brutally. So we turn to brutality, too. Yes, we have made mistakes. We have been selfish and short-sighted, but the second spokesman and his kind are largely to blame."

Then came the great interruption. The white-haired father began to speak.

"I have heard enough. You merely blame one another. In your selfishness you pile up within you more and more resentments. You hold yourselves blameless and put upon others the burden of conforming to your own views. You—all three spokesmen—are intolerant and selfish. You think of your own political or economic selves. You talk and act as if the people all around you were slaves to toy with, to use for your experiments. Do you ever think of acknowledging your wrongs, making restitution to each other, trying really to serve each other without thought of reward? Why not try that? Why not cast out the resentments within you which are mere sin, why not look upon your fellowman as equally entitled with you to the pursuits of life, liberty and happiness?"

Admits Wrongs

Again a silence. A newspaper correspondent arose. He said:

"I wish to apologize. I have condemned perhaps unjustly. I have helped to fan the fires of hate. I have sensationalized these quarrels. I have not helped to heal—to conciliate. As I have done wrong, oh, white-haired father, forgive me."

Then a strange thing happened. The first spokesman arose again, and as he began to speak there was unfurled in the breeze the flag of the president of the United States, and he said:

"I have made mistakes. I shall publicly acknowledge them. I shall call on others to acknowledge their errors too. We shall begin at once to cast out resentment from our souls. We shall try again to live together and work together for you." And then the second spokesman said:

"We in business have made mistakes. We are ready to admit them. We want only to be met halfway. We want to be trusted. We shall purge ourselves of distrust and dishonesty. We shall do it unconditionally because that, we understand, is really your will."

And presently the third spokesman arose:

Another Promise

"Not all the wrong has been with our first and second spokesmen. We, too, have sinned. We have quarrelled among ourselves. We have been intolerant, unpromising, bitter and resentful. We shall acknowledge our errors. We shall approach our employers with a spirit of truth. We shall meet honestly with honesty."

The dream was proceeding splendidly. The spirit of it caught the enthusiasm of the millions who heard. Their eyes shone brightly. They moved away with firm and eager step. Their ill-nourished bodies seemed to have been suddenly filled with vigor and energy. I seemed to be witnessing a miracle—and then I woke up.

At my bedside was a copy of the congressional record for June 2, 1938, and I saw therein that three times the senate of the United States, confronted with a moral issue—honesty in elections and the eradication of WPA from politics—refused to prohibit federal employees from engaging in political activity. I was back in the world of unmorality.

Map Program For District Church Meet

THE program for the annual Appleton district assembly of the Wisconsin conference of the Evangelical church to be held at the district grounds in Forest Junction Aug. 19 to 23, was outlined Saturday afternoon at a meeting of the board of directors of the Appleton District Campmeeting association at Forest Junction. The session was held at Zion Evangelical church, conducted by the Rev. W. G. Raddatz of Appleton, district superintendent, who is also president of the campmeeting association.

As in previous years, the assembly combines a district campmeeting with a Sunday school and Christian Endeavor convention, the latter including two daily classes in a school of religion and methods. The Rev. H. A. Bernhardt of Seymour, president of the district Sunday school and Christian Endeavor league, attended the board of directors' meeting here Saturday afternoon in advisory capacity to harmonize the program of the campmeeting with that of the organization he represents.

Guest speaker for the assembly will be the Rev. William Grote of Elgin, Ill., former pastor at Naperville, Ill., headquarters of the denominational North Central college and Evangelical Theological seminary. Besides the guest speaker, district pastors will occupy places on the program of daily services.

Among various business matters disposed of Saturday afternoon, two resolutions amending the articles of organization of the campmeeting association were drawn up, which will be recommended to the annual stockholders' meeting in August for consideration. One of them pertains to adding another member to the board of directors of the association so as to include the president of the district Sunday school and Christian Endeavor league. The other limits membership rights in the association to members of the Evangelical church.

Appointments made include that of the Rev. Philip Schneider, Forest Junction, as manager of the dining hall and dormitories, and Miss Flora A. Haese, Forest Junction, as campmeeting pianist. A song leader for the assembly is being secured by the president of the association, while the Sunday school and Christian Endeavor group is securing a junior and intermediate superintendent to fill the vacancy occasioned by the removal of Mrs. O. A. Hillman, previously at Reedsville, from the district.

Unity Urged At Rally of Church Men

EMPHASIZING the need for finding practical means of expressing the inner unity of all Christians in community activities in which all Christian people of that community could join, Dr. Milton C. Townner, director of admissions at Lawrence college, presented some suggestions for carrying out this activity in a talk on "Christian Unity" at the men's interdenominational rally Sunday morning at Pierce park which was attended by between 80 and 100 men.

Dr. Townner suggested occasional interdenominational observances such as the rally held Sunday morning, advocating the calling of the attention of local congregations to the unity of Christian fellowship by all engaging in identical services although in separate worship groups, and said that a definite program of inter-church visitation rather than aimless "shopping around" would be of value. He advocated more frequent exchange of pulpits and the formation of study groups in local churches in which it might be pointed out that the materials used in services are drawn from all branches of faith.

Dr. Townner closed with a quotation from John M. Moore's "The Church of My Dreams" as follows: "A church adequate for the task, the church of the warm heart, of the open mind, of the adventurous spirit; the church that cares, the church that hurls, that comforts old people, that challenges youth, that knows no division of culture or class, no frontiers, geographical or social; the church that inquires as well as avers, that looks forward as well as backward; the church of the master, the church of the people, the high church, the broad church, the low church, high as the

OCTAGON HOUSE

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

The Story So Far: Asey Mayo, Cape Cod detective, is investigating the murder of Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office mural has aroused Quonomet. She was killed by a left handed blow from her sister's knife. Suspected Pam Frye disappears because someone who smokes Turkish tobacco is trailing her to discover the whereabouts of $50,000 worth of ambergis she found. Agreeable Tim Carr, boarder at the Frye's Octagon House, is left handed, smoked Turkish tobacco, and hated Marina. And Roddy Strutt, whose alibi-ing plane crash looks deliberate, is offering a reward for the murder. Asey decides to locate Pam's ambergis and make sure it is safe.

Chapter 19
Asey Puts the Windows

Asey backed his truck into a driveway, and finally managed to maneuver along to a lane leading to the network of back roads. A left hand driving interminably through sandy ruts, he at last turned off on a road which eventually wound past Octagon House and the Lorne cottage.

An amazingly small group, a mere handful, waited outside the barred wire barrier. For the most part, they looked like local people. Asey leaned out and inquired what had become of the tourists.

The man shrugged. "I don't know. I guess they're up town. They don't seem to care much about the murder or the mural either. They're just out for a good time."

"Then I guess," Asey said, "I can get this loom dumped. I been tryin' all day to dump it here, an' they wouldn't let me."

The policeman at the barrier, overhearing Asey's remark, announced that he couldn't dump it now, either.

"I'd like to know why," Asey said. "Pam Frye ordered this loom, an' I've brought it, an' I can't waste any more time cartin' it around, an' I need my truck. I can't see how I'm going to hurt anyone, just dumpin' a little loom, an' doing some work I been paid to do."

He spoke loudly enough for everyone to hear, and the group promptly took his side. What harm was a little loom, if a man needed his truck? They discussed the situation with gusto until the officer bowed to public opinion and let Asey through, or, at least, Asey shoved half the loom into a neat pile by the back porch while another trooper watched him suspiciously.

"Now," Asey put down his shovel, "now, mister, I want to see Aaron Frye. Ask him—"

"You can't."

"Well, then you go ask him what windows he wants me to begin puttin' putty on first, mister. I got work to do."

"You can't see Frye, and you can't do any work around here," the trooper said. "Beat it."

"He's harmless."

Asey took a can of putty and a knife from the front seat of the truck. "Pam Frye nursed me last week to fix these windows," he said, "an' I'm a-goin' to fix windows. An' who do you bunch of Cossacks think you are?" Go get your boss an' tell him to arrest a man that's goin' about his business, doin' his work he's paid to do. Go on—well, whynt you go?"

"Listen," the trooper said, "do you have to make trouble?"

"Who's making trouble?" Asey said. "I ain't makin' trouble. I'm just goin' to putty up some windows, like Pam Frye hired me to do last week. Want you to putty the windows, says she. All right, says I'll putty 'em Sat'-day afternoon, when I bring you the loom for the back flower bed. If a fellow's promised to putty windows, an' he's got just so much time to putty the windows when—"

"For gosh sakes," the trooper said wearily, "go putty your damned window, and shut your face! Hey, Ding!" He yelled to still another trooper who was just entering the house. "This guy's going to putty the windows. He's all right, he's harmless."

"Huh," Asey said, trying to sound badly ruffled, "it sure takes you fellows a long time to make your minds up!"

Swinging the putty pail and gripping the putty knife, he made a slow and searching circuit of the house. The cellar windows were large four-paned things, and they needed putty just about as badly as he thought they would. He could putty practically till doomsday, or until someone got suspicious and sent him away.

From what he could gather by peering through the windows, the cellar floor plan was a strange and wonderful thing. The hall apparently ran diagonally through the place, slicing the octagon and leaving visible two triangular small rooms, two rectangles—slightly bashed—and two hybrid rooms that seemed to have at least six walls apiece. He raved in his mind, contemplate what happen'd in the middle of the place, beyond his line of vision. He strongly suspected that there was a circular staircase to the first floor, at the very least.

"A Lovely Idea"

The trooper stopped him as he started a second trip about the outside.

"If your going to putty, brother," he said, "you putty 'fear me' putty!"

Asey sighed plaintively. "Looky here," he said, "some of these windows needs putty more'n others does. How can I tell which needs it most, if you keep stoppin' an' interruptin' an' botherin' me?"

"Get gone!"

"All right," Asey said, "All right, I'll get gone. No respect for a man's work, that's what's the matter with this world."

He made his way to the triangular furnace room window and removed all the putty from one pane with such deft celerity as to remove also whatever suspicions the trooper might have been entertaining. Then he proceeded to putty, with infinite care.

A slight noise in the first floor window above temporarily disconcerted him. He looked up to find the green parrot he had ever seen staring down at him fixedly from a perch in a cage. On the window all lay Emma Goldman.

Weisgerber Blanks Clintonville, 3 to 0

Kaukauna Hurler Fans 13 Batters, Drives In First Run SEYMOUR VICTOR Downs Kimberly Paper-makers With Run in Last of Ninth

KAUKAUNA—Fanning 13 batters and allowing only four hits, Dick Weisgerber hurled his first victory for the Kaukauna Mellow Bows in the Northern State league yesterday afternoon here. The score was 3 and 0 and the losing team was the Clintonville Truckers.

Weisgerber was tough yesterday, so tough that his hits all were singles, that only one Trucker managed to see the region of third base, and so good that at one stage he fanned eight of eleven men to face him.

After having the sacks loaded in the fourth he fanned two batters. In the fifth he struck out the side, in the sixth he fanned the first man, the second grounded and he fanned the third. Then in the seventh his spell continued and he whiffed the first two men to oppose him. He still was going strong in the ninth and struck out the first two men to run his total to 13 for the day. He walked two.

Long John Tomlinson opposed Weisgerber and for six frames hid almost as well as Richard. He wasn't fanning so many lads and he fanned only six for the game, but in those first six frames he allowed only two singles, one a very scratchy hit and the Kaws weren't getting the ball out of the infield. Tomlinson walked three during the afternoon. Two singles in the seventh and a double and two singles in the eighth caused his downfall. There was only one error during the afternoon, a wild throw by Kersten, Clintonville third baseman.

Kaws in Double Play
The ball game opened with Fanning, first up for the Trucker. Palmer, first up for the Kaws, grounded to Weisgerber who started a snappy double play with the aid of Powell at short and Eggert at first.

Kaukauna got its first hit in the second when Zelinski bounced one off Tomlin's glove after Kappel had walked. Peck rolled to end the frame.

Both teams threatened in the fourth. With one away, Palmer singled back of short for Clintonville. Schmidtke dumped a single into short center and the bases were loaded when Wagner drew a walk. Weisgerber then bore down and fanned Petek and Tomlin and started his string of strikeouts.

In the Kaw half the frame, Eggert singled with one out and went all the way to third when Vondrashek hit to third and Kersten tossed the ball over Schmidtke's head. Eggert might have gone home had the catcher been more alert for Gabby Smith, Trucker catcher, left home plate uncovered on the play but got back before the fans could inform Baldy of the situation. Zelinski rolled to end the inning.

Tomlin Weakens
As Weisgerber got tougher as the game went on Tomlin began to weaken. In the seventh, with one out, Zelinski drove a liner through the box into center. Peck then smashed a drive into left which Ford caught at his shoetops. With the fans lamenting the luck, Weisgerber took things into his own hands and smacked a hard drive into left center and Zelinski, reposing in second as result of a passed ball, galloped home. The run looked like the ball game.

The eighth saw the Kaws count two more runs and definitely sew up their victory. Vils opened the frame with a walk. Gertz flied out but Eggert came through with a screaming double to right. When Kappel singled to left both Vils and Eggert scored. Kappel went to second on the play and remained while Vondrashek was singling to center. Zelinski then hit sharply to third and Kappel was forced at third. Zelinski in turn was erased at second on Peck's grounder.

Seymour—Seymour rallied in the last of the ninth inning in a game here yesterday with Kimberly Paper-makers and earned a 3 to 2 victory in Northern State league play. Kroening opened the ninth with a single, went to second base on Strick's error and counted when Binner hit one over second base.

Penzenstadler worked for Seymour and Behr and Carvenough for the losers. Penzenstadler fanned seven and walked one. Behr fanned one, walked four and Carvenough fanned four and walked five.

Louis Training Hard for Battle With Schmeling

Routine Is Entirely Different From Conditioning For First Bout

BY GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK—(AP)—The change that has come over Joe Louis in the two years since his first unfortunate encounter with Max Schmeling's right first is exemplified in his training quarters at Pompton Lakes, N. J.

Compared to the hotpot at Lakewood where he trained, more or less, the other time, Joe's present retreat is a cross between an old folks' home and a monastery garden.

They've even installed a green fence around the old colonial home where the champ gets his slumber, and after about 10 o'clock of an evening there isn't a sound to break the stillness except the deep, resonant snoring of well-fed sparring partners.

Rowing Boat
Joe, the boy who grew older, spends much of his spare time rowing a heavy boat about the lake at his back door.

Joe went through the motions of training for his first fight with the German, but he devoted most of his time to playing golf, shaking hands with the hero-worshippers who crowded his hotel, and listening to the music. He made personal appearances at sand-lot ball games to improve his wind and stamina.

This time, there can be slight doubt, Louis will face Max in as near perfect condition as a man can get. Before he completed his training he will have boxed at least 90 rounds with the toughest lot of sparring partners you ever looked at. All of them are encouraged, even ordered, to throw right-hand wallops at Joe's jaw, and he already has absorbed a thousand or so. It is obvious he expects Schmeling to tag him with some of those lethal haymakers, and he is prepared to take them.

Grimm Has Hands Full Keeping Diz From Overworking

Chicago—(AP)—Manager Charlie Grimm of the Chicago Cubs admits that $185,000 worth of pitching arm is "something to worry about."

Dizzy Dean, who cost the Cubs that much money, has been fairly itching to get back into action after a layoff because of arm soreness — and for more reasons than one, Grimm will be glad to hear the doctor say that Dean is ready, an announcement which is expected momentarily. Twice Grimm has had to warn the ambitious Diz against throwing too long for fear of undoing the good accomplished by a gradual conditioning program.

Yesterday, Grimm ordered Dean to stop throwing to a teammate, and later halted a "pepper" bunting game which Diz had promptly joined. Grimm, relaxing on the bench, then spotted Dean tossing to a bat boy in a distant part of the field. He ran out and took the ball away from the lanky hurler.

left the New London club in sole possession of the lead.

The precise infield work of the High Lites went away for one inning yesterday and gave the Cool City nine extra two runs in the eighth inning on a series of three errors, to trail 4 to 3.

Pitcher Alberts, for the visitors, gave the Bows an opportunity to regain the lost runs during their bat when he was guilty of an error and a wild pitch and permitted a walk. The Millers turned the advantage into three runs to cinch the tilt.

Muldowey, Two Rivers, jogged the circuit in the ninth on a home run hit over the right field wall.

Pupeter Fined, Chased

The game gave the record crowd about all the new Northern State league has to offer. Spectators seemed particularly amused with the strict disciplinary measures on the field. Umpire Jansen was continually chasing fans clear of the dugouts and sidelines but the high spot came when he fined Ed Pupeter, Two Rivers catcher, $5 and ordered him off the field in the ninth inning for loudly criticizing the ump's decision on a called strike. Forfeiture of the game hung in the balance as Jansen grimly timed the offending catcher for the two minutes allowed for departure. Pupeter moved off during the waning seconds.

Despite the infield errors in the eighth, New London's fielders outshone the visitors and several spectacular catches in the outfield stemmed threatening advances.

The High Lites scored the first man up when Dohberstein stretched a left field grounder into a 2-base hit, advanced on Palmer's bunt and came home on a fluke fly by Munsch.

The sun in the fielders' eyes started two runs in the third inning when Munsch's left field fly dropped about four feet short of the blinded out fielders and scored Edminster who had walked. Munsch went on around the circuit to score when Alberts cut off the heave to the infield and hurled to second base which was completely uncovered. Hawk was left on second when he followed up with a double.

Turns in Double Play
Tip Krohn, who continued to pitch admirable ball for the New London club, allowed his first walk in the fourth frame. A double play erased the runner when Dohberstein picked a boulder out of the dust, caught Smorgolski at second, and Hawk pegged to Shortell to stop Santorch at first.

The home team added another hard earned run in the fifth frame after bunting three hits. An attempt to stop them with a double play found the visitors a little slow.

After the hectic eighth inning which saw good and bad playing on each side and the score, 7 to 3, Muldowey's homer over the right wall came with the bags empty in the ninth and set the final count at 7-4.

The loss of a last chance to score rattled Pupeter when he was called out by Jensen after striking at two. Brault was hurt badly in the left kidney when he tried to evade a wild pitch by Krohn. Another runner took his place. Catcher Orin Krohn ended the game with one of his difficult foul catches behind the plate.

TERRORS 4TH AT VALLEY TRACK MEET

Appleton High school track and field team rated only fourth in the annual Fox River Valley conference meet here Saturday afternoon but here are pictures of three Terrors who figured in the scoring. Ralph Colvin, upper left, is shown as he crossed the tape winner in the quarter mile. He was the only Appleton contestant to take a first and is a co-captain of the squad.

At the right is the other half of the captaincy, Karl Bohnsack, who tied for third in the pole vault and won second in the broad jump to be Appleton's high scorer.

The hurdler, upper right, is Merrill "Sonny" Filz, who was named captain of the 1939 track squad. Filz won third in the low hurdles. He also competed in the high and in the broad jump and ran on the relay squad. (Post-Crescent Photos.)

Ken Keltner Signed With Indians for 1939 Season

BY SID FEDER
(Pinch-Hitting for Eddie Brietz)
NEW YORK—(AP)—No wonder those Giants are nose-diving. . . . They scored the grand total of nine runs in their last 54 innings. . . . Incidentally, wouldn't it be the height of something or other if Terrible Terry, who's frantic for a second-sacker, wangled Tony Lazzari from the Cubs and brought him back to New York—but in the National league. . . . Don't worry, though; there's as much chance of the Phillies winning the pennant. . . .

The Indians have signed their classy third-base rookie, Ken Keltner, for 1939 already. . . .

Track and Field Marks Expected to Fall During Month

Major Events of Outdoor Season in Store for Athletes

NEW DREW MIDDLETON
NEW YORK—(AP)—In the light of recent developments among the runners, leapers, throwers and vaulters it will not be surprising if the month of June passes into history as one in which records fell like sparring partners in the Joe Louis training camp.

Just ahead of a bumper crop of college and club athletes are most of the major events of the outdoor season—the Central Collegiate conference meet Friday afternoon and night at Milwaukee, the national collegiate A. A. championships at Minneapolis a week later and, on June 25, the real meet between the Big Ten and the Pacific Coast conference.

Trojans Win
The American track public, which likes its meets sprinkled liberally with records, can take heart from Saturday's I. C. A-A games at New York. Of the many potential record breakers entered, only Ken Gillis and Loring Day, the pole vaulters from Southern California, failed to approach record heights. But the Trojans won't kick. They won the title with 474 points.

An established star, John Woodruff of Pitt, and a newcomer to the headlines, Michigan State's Harvey Woodstra, emerged as potential record breakers in the quarter and half mile and the hurdles.

Woodruff tied the I. C. A-A record of 47 flat in the quarter and then completed his second straight double in the two events with a 1:52.5 half mile. And many believe long John has just begun to run.

There was nothing sensational about Woodstra's times 23.8 for 220-yard hurdles and 14.4 for

Milwaukee Splits Double Bill With Team at Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio—(AP)—The Milwaukee Brewers gained half a game on St. Paul in their struggle to get to the top of the second division in the American association yesterday by splitting a twin bill with Columbus as St. Paul lost to Indianapolis.

The Brewers dropped the first game, 5 to 2, the Red Birds finding Whitlow Wyatt for nine hits. Allan Johnson took an 8 to 7 victory in the second game, but was shelved off the mound in the eighth inning when Columbus scored all its runs.

Lin Storti poked out two home runs in the second game as the Brewers nicked four Columbus pitchers for eleven hits.

BLUES LOSE TWO
Many a baseball pennant has been won and lost through "breaks of the game" but it's a rarity when a manager has a chance to bemoan such a one as platonine poisoning.

That ailment played a part in the American association doubleheader program yesterday. With six of seven ill members of the club hospitalized, the Kansas City Blues dropped two games in the afternoon to the Toledo Mud Hens, 7 to 6 and 12 to 5. Among the players who became ill after a meal at Indianapolis were catcher Elton Brees and Christ Hartje, and the Blues used John Rostie, a Toledo sand-lotter, behind the plate in both defeats.

Indianapolis, which took over the circuit lead from the Blues Saturday, tightened its grip on the top spot by defeating St. Paul 7 to 3 in the first game of a scheduled twin bill and gaining a 2-2 draw in the nightcap, called in the eighth because of the 6-o'clock law.

Late inning power enabled Minneapolis to defeat Louisville, 9 to 3, in a 10-inning opener and 5 to 4 in the nine-inning nightcap.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Johnny Vander Meer, Reds — Pitched three-hitter and fanned five to whip Giants, 4-1.

Willis Hudlin and Hal Trosky, Indians — Hudlin's double in tenth drove in winning run for 5-4 victory over Senators; Trosky clouted two homers.

Vito Tarduli, Dodgers — Pitched hitless, runless ball for four innings relief to save 10-5 decision over Pirates.

Beau Bell, Browns — Hit homer and drove in two runs in 6-5 win over Yankees.

Pepper Martin, Cardinals, and Milt Shoffner, Bees—Martin hit pinch-double with two on to tie score, and then scored winning run in 6-5 opener victory; Shoffner pitched nine-hitter, fanning four, in night-cap.

Vernon Kennedy, Tigers — Won ninth straight victory, holding Red Sox to nine hits for 10-4 triumph.

Tox Carleton, Cubs—Handcuffed Phillies with eight hits for 7-1 win.

Monte Stratton, White Sox, and Dick Siebert, Athletics — Former pitched six-hitter and collected double and two singles himself in 8-2 opener win; Siebert hit two doubles and a triple, driving in three runs in 7-6 nightcap victory.

Appleton Fifth In Fox Valley Track Tourney

West Takes Title With East 2nd; Colvin Wins Only First For Terrors

BY GORDON MCINTYRE

GREEN BAY, Wis. High school track squad nosed out Green Bay East here Saturday afternoon at George A. Whiting field of Lawrence college to take the Fox River Valley conference track and field honors for 1938. The Panthers replaced Appleton as titlist.

West scored 58 points to East's 53 after East had led most of the afternoon. The remainder of the field was bunched out far in arrears of the Bay schools. Fond du Lac crashed through with a surprising third with 23 points, Oshkosh was fourth with 22, Appleton fifth with 21, and Manitowoc brought up the rear with 17. It was Appleton's poorest showing in many years.

Colvin Takes Only First
Appleton took only one first. Co-captain Ralph Colvin taking the honors in the quarter. More than 15 boys were entered in the

FILZ NAMED CAPTAIN
Merrill "Sonny" Filz, hurdler and broad jumper, was elected captain of the Appleton High school track team for 1939 at a meeting of lettermen Saturday after the Valley conference meeting. He succeeds Ralph Colvin and Karl Bohnsack who shared the captaincy this year. Filz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Filz, 523 E. Wisconsin avenue.

Track letters were awarded the following after Saturday's meet: Kay Rogers, Clem Werner, Ralph Colvin, Fred Oliver, Henry Koletzke, Glenn Bowers, Merrill Filz, Don Heinritz, Karl Bohnsack and Owen Larson. Managers' letters went to Junior Olsson and Pat Smith.

race which was run out of the chute and around one curve. Colvin stepped into the lead in the final 100 yards and crossed the line several strides in the lead. His time was 53.2 seconds.

Kay Rogers won a second place for Appleton in the mile. He moved to the front shortly after the start and although challenged several times managed to hold his position.

Glenn Bowers took a fourth for the Terrors in the high hurdles with Filz running sixth and outside of the points. In the lows, however, Filz won a third place.

Co-Captain Karl Bohnsack rated second in the broad jump when he was nosed out of first by a quarter of an inch. He also tied for third and fourth in the pole vault.

The other Terror point came from a fifth place in the half mile relay. Filz, Bohnsack, Bowers and Colvin comprised the team.

Appleton entered a large number of contestants but they found the going too fast. Larson was going to test his heat of the hurdles while Filz ran second to Rickaby and Bowers second in his trial. Oliver was entered in the lows, with Filz and Bowers.

Witter and Koletzke tried in the dashes but all failed to qualify, and Lutz and Werner found the miles much too fast. The same was true of Vulgart, Radtke and Burke in the half mile.

Larson, Fumal, Oliver and Ohlrogge found the high jumps getting up too fast. Larson was the case with Acker, Ohlrogge and Koehnke in the pole vault. Filz and Oliver failed to place in the broad jump.

Weight Men Fall
Terror efforts in the weight events also were far below the points. In the shot, Heinritz got off a toss of 40 feet, 74 inches and then fouled twice. Rollins tossed 39 feet, 11 1/2 inches and fouled twice. In the discus, Bowers tossed the platter 108 feet, 4 inches but fouled twice. The discus was good for 94 feet. Dutcher fouled three times and Koehnke got off an ordinary throw and then fouled twice.

Four new records were set and one equaled. W. Lambert of East chipped a tenth of a second off H. Johnson's high hurdle record and three-tenths of a second off Emmett Mortell's low hurdle mark. Johnson was from West and set the record in 1934. Mortell from Appleton and set the record in 1935.

Baye, East's, was clocked in his heat at the 220-yard dash in 27.7 seconds or three-tenths of a second faster than the time of R. Nevak. Manitowoc, in 1935. Baye finished third in the finals, however, but it's likely his record will stand.

The other record broken was the oldest in the books, the high jump mark of Earl Orlebeck, Shiozygan, of 5 feet, 10 1/2 inches set in 1923. Bob Wilson, West, broke the mark.

Neenah — Pitcher Schultz hurled the Neenah Merchants to another victory Sunday afternoon, the Merchants copping a 6 to 3 decision over Grand Chute with little difficulty. Grand Chute was limited to three runs, all of which were tallied in the fifth inning, while the Merchants spread their scoring, netting a point in the opening frame, adding two more in the second and waiting until the seventh before they regained the lead. They clinched the game in the eighth stanza when two more runs came home.

Schultz restricted the Grand Chute batters to eight hits and he walked two men. He fanned five. Nofke, Grand Chute flinger, was nipped for nine safeties. He struck out six.

Batting honors were well scattered with six Neenah batsmen poking out hits and four Grand Chute batters connecting. O. Kirk, Grand Chute, hoisted out the only triple. Krois, Grand Chute, clouted a double.

Handler Scores
Ken Handler crossed the plate for Neenah's first point. He was safe on a bunt and moved to second on Bill Handler's sacrifice and scored on Gartzke's lone fly. In the second inning, Christofferson cracked an infield hit, while Gammey batted one out into the garden and moved to third on a wild throw with Christofferson scoring. Cheslock was safe on an error and Ken Handler was hit by a pitched ball to overload the bags and Gammey came home.

The Merchants took the lead in the seventh when Gammey scored after Ken and Bill Handler each singled. An error and a wild throw gave Fahrenkrug a chance to score the first run in the eighth frame, while Christofferson scored on Cheslock's single.

CHUTERS FINALLY COP
Little Chute — Little Chute A. broke into the win column of a Fox River Valley league standings with a 6 to 1 victory over Thomas Drugs of Green Bay here Sunday afternoon. Neither team scored until the seventh inning when Snare Luessen came through with a double with the bases loaded to drive in three runs. Harold Van Dyke singled to score men on second and third and put the game on ice in the eighth frame.

Little Chute counted again in the eighth inning when Red Boots doubled to score Van Dyke from first base. Green Bay scored its lone run in the ninth when Stiller went to second on an error and Rodelet singled.

Dago Schuler was on the mound for Little Chute and allowed but two hits, one in the third and the other in the ninth. Rodelet pitched the ninth and the disastrous seventh inning. Harvey Hartwig shook off the batting jinx and came through with three hits in four times to lead the Chuters while H. Van Dyke and Boots each had two for three.

CABS UPSET TAVENS
Oshkosh Cubs dumped Beecher's Tavern of Appleton in a Fox River Valley league game by an 8 to 2 score at Oshkosh Sunday afternoon. Van Ryzen turned in a fine game on the mound for Appleton for the first time in six weeks, allowing but four hits and walking seven but his support weakened and he left the game in favor of Buster Brown.

While both teams played good ball, the Oshkosh squad showed more power at the plate and pushed over two runs in the third, four in the fifth and one each in the sixth and seventh frames. Appleton's tallies came in the first and eighth stanzas.

"Hoop" Muggerauer starred for Oshkosh with three hits out of four tries, one being a home run that nearly landed in the lake. Melv Pope led the Appleton attack with two hits, one being a long triple.

Milwaukee Rider Cops Hill Climbing Honors

NEW LONDON—Mosquito hill here remained unconquered by motorcycles after an officially sanctioned meet of the American Motorcycle association yesterday afternoon. Hundreds of spectators lined the south side of the hill to encourage more than 30 riders in the six events. The meet was sponsored by the Appleton Motorcycle club which conducted the affair and set up a hill trophy and cash prizes.

George Feith, Milwaukee, won the cyclists' trophy for reaching the highest point on the hill, 278 feet, in the novice 80 cubic inch displacement class. The mark was equaled by Ken Burks of Racine but on a second try to decide the winner. Feith went farthest to take first place. Melvin Krueger, Wausau, was third. Official distance over the top of the hill was 310 feet.

Cyclists from all over the state participated with the largest field.

NEW LONDON — A 7-run splurge in the eighth inning gave the New London American Legion senior baseballers their first win in the Wolf River Valley league by a 9-8 victory over Weyauwega yesterday afternoon, 9 to 8.

A combination of five hits, two walks and an error accounted for the tallies as the entire lineup batted more than once around. Flanagan started the inning with a double and ended the hitting with a single. A previous run in the sixth resulted from a home run clout by Jim Mesnick and one was counted in the third on two hits and an error.

The Wega team jumped into an early lead by turning four hits into four runs in the second inning. Stroschein and Hanamann started and finished the series with 2-base swats. Other 2-base hits were earned by Wohlt and Buchholz. Kassube hit a 3-bagger for New London in the seventh but couldn't score.

Wall, pitching for Weyauwega, fanned seven batters and Augie Beckert for New London whiffed six. Both walked two. Jerry Fitzgerald, of Lebanon, fresh from Marquette university joined the Legion team yesterday and took over the third sack, Ned Demming was absent.

Next Sunday the team is scheduled to make its first showing at home when Manawa will be the visiting team.

MANAWA DEFEATED
Manawa — Slat Gretsinger, injured right hander, and useful Felix Ascher, Shawano's clever southpaw hooked up in an old-fashioned hurling Sunday and when the smoke of battle cleared Manawa was on the usless end of a 3 to 1 score. Shawano, however, gained exactly four hits off Gretsinger while Manawa had one less.

Shawano counted in the second on Baumgarten's double and Ascher's single. The Wolves tied it up in the sixth when Doon fumbled Glocke's grounder, the Manawa outfielder stole second and came home on a wild pitch and a passed ball. Shawano went into the lead in the seventh on Peterson's walk, a sacrifice and Johnnie Reed's single. The Badgers had the game on ice on consecutive walks to Billy Reed and Peterson. Volkman's wild throw and a perfect play on Hull's bunt which allowed Reed to cross the plate.

Giants Turned Back by Johnny Vander Meer And the Reds

CHICAGO — The Chicago Cubs moved into first place in the National League Sunday by defeating Philadelphia, 7 to 1, as the New York Giants, pace-makers since early in the season, bowed to the Cincinnati Reds.

Tex Carleton, hurling steady, eight-hit ball, won his sixth victory of the campaign. The Cubs collected a similar number of safeties, but they were more timely than those garnered by the Phils.

Chicago picked up three runs in the fourth inning as Carleton pounded two runs home with a double, and in the seventh the Chicagoans collected four more runs.

Two bombs were dropped in the foreign settlement, but the planes were said to have released numerous bombs over the settlement in order to hit nearby buildings.

It was estimated that half of Kaifeng's normal population of 250,000 was evacuated before the city was captured in 24 hours of hand-to-hand fighting.

The resistance, though stubborn, was great as the Japanese had expected. Most of the Chinese already had withdrawn to Chengchow, making the defense of Kaifeng only a rear guard action to delay the Japanese advance.

Numerous other Japanese columns drove westward on the great Chinese highway. Japanese warplanes continued their deadly bombardments in widely-separated parts of China.

Foreign quarters in Hankow said one flying column had reached the Peiping-Hankow railway at Yen-cheng, 80 miles south of Chengchow and 210 miles north of Hankow.

Stray Boats on Course. Costly Fuel Are Problems of Outboard Drivers

Kaukauna — Auto drivers who kick about only getting 15 miles or so on a gallon of gas have only to place themselves in the shoes, or the boat, of the drivers who will race in the water carnival here Saturday and Sunday to realize they don't know when they're well off. For when a driver dumps a gallon of gas in his tank he knows it won't run his boat two miles. Furthermore, the racer pays about $1 a gallon for his fuel. This fuel is no ordinary gas, it being made up of a combination of ether and castor oil. An afternoon's competition will cost the average driver about $35.

Most people think an airplane motor turns as fast as any. But while plane engines revolve up to about 2,500 revolutions per minute, most racing motors reach 7,000 and some go up as high as 8,500. They are the finest and most delicately constructed motors in the world. Streamlining, which has recently come in vogue in autos and almost everything else, has been done in first driver arrives in town and racing boats and motors for years.

Propellers are streamlined down to razor-like edges. Racing propellers have two blades in place of the normal three, with a good propeller costing $25. Their edge is so sharp that a diver has no excuse for a beard with his propeller about. Gear housings are so thin that they sometimes break under the strain of a race.

Officials of the Wisconsin Boating association have issued warnings to other boats not to run about the course during a race. It is far more dangerous for boats to be running during the regatta than for an automobile to be running around or near an auto racing track. No driver could be hired to run near a race track, yet the motor boat owner thinks nothing of hopping up and down a course. A racing boat may go wild at any time.

Boat drivers not entered in the races are asked not to run boats on the course during the days of the regatta, because they are a danger to themselves from the time the first driver arrives in town and starts to warm up on the course.

Seniors Beat Klub Squad in Rubber

Kaukauna — The Seniors, high school champions, won the rubber game of their series with the Kaukauna Klub softball team yesterday afternoon on the library grounds, taking the nightcap of a doubleheader, 18 to 4, after the Klubs had edged them out, 5 to 4, in the first game. The Seniors were victors in the first game of the series Friday, 8 to 6.

The Klubs started off with three runs in the first inning and were never headed. The Seniors counted once in the fourth and three times in the sixth, with the Klubs adding single markers in the fourth and fifth. John Duffy had three hits for the losers, and Art Koehne three, including a double, for the winners.

The second game was an entirely different story. The Seniors counted three times in the first, four in the second, six in the third, once in the fourth and finished with four in the seventh. The best of the Klubs could do was one in the first, two in the fourth and one in the seventh. Floyd Hooyman was the winning pitcher, setting the Klubs down with but three hits.

Earl Mollet, Bud Tatro and Bob Eiting all flung for the losers. Bob Hatchell, John Duffy and Clayton Watson all hit homers for the Seniors. Art Koehne's three base hit in the second game was the longest hit for the Klubs.

"They enjoy their refined skin-mishing," Tim said, and closed the door. "Well, on the whole, what do you think of things, Gran?"

"I think, on the whole," she said, "that we have been sufficiently open and garrulous to allay suspicions. It was a lovely idea of yours, Timmy, and I give you full credit. You're masterly with details. I always thought so. The only real point is, where did she put it? Where, in God's name did the girl put it?"

Ascy felt as though someone had hit him sharply between the eyes. "Where did she put it?" Mrs. Carr asked again. "Where?" Timothy sighed. "I don't know, Gran. All I'm sure of is that she hid it somewhere. No one's brought it to light yet, so it still must be here. It's got to be. And by heaven, I'm going to find it!"
